PERTH, Western Australia (AP) — A beautiful woman is crossing the forbidding central Australian desert with four camels and a dog, say rangers, missionaries and travellers who claim to have seen her. But no one knows who the mysterious "camel lady" is or why she's there.

The reports indicate the woman is nearing the end of a 620-mile, two-month trek across the sand dunes, salt marshes and scrublands of the Gibson desert from Ayers Rock in central Australia to Wiluna in Western Australia.

She has been reported twice by police and mission station staff. And a farmer, Dennis Barell, said he saw her after noticing a campfire while he was crossing central Australia.

"When I saw the fire, I jammed on the brakes and called out," he said later in Melbourne. "She was beautiful. The moon was out and the camel pack was standing on the edge of the Mulga (bush) with their bells tinkling."

But the woman did not respond to Barell's call.

Constable Mick Leverence of Wiluna said this week that the woman was only 155 miles northeast of the town on the edge of the desert. A cattle station had reported she arrived there about a week before.

"By now, the camel lady should be near Well No. 10 on the canning stock route and about to turn south toward Wiluna," he said. "The track, called the Gunbarrel Highway, is very rough."

8,000 Pa. state workers are 'sick,' so legislature acts

By RICH KIRKPATRICK
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — More than 8,000 Pennsylvania state employees called in sick Friday to protest the seven week-old budget deadlock that has left them without pay and legislators divided over the question of increased taxes.

The legislature has rejected the budget seven times over the past week. The last vote, taken early Friday morning, fell two votes short of the 102 needed for passage.

About 1,000 of the employees marched on the state Capitol chanting "Pass the Budget." They streamed through the Capitol hallways trying to meet with lawmakers who remained out of sight while state and capital police guarded their offices.

"We're going to be starving," complained Margaret Fulke as she waved a protest sign beneath the Capitol rotunda.

Lawmakers are battling over whether to increase taxes by $300 million.

Although a budget was supposed to be passed June 30, emergency funds carried the state until Aug. 1. Now majority Democrats and Gov. Milton Shapp are opposed to further stopgaps. However, 15 Democrats have broken party ranks and joined with Republicans to block passage.

Most state workers have missed two pay checks, a total of $61.4 million.

Groucho leaves 'em all crying, dies at 86

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Groucho Marx, the cigar-chomping comedian who made two generations of Americans laugh with his leering grin and bushy eyebrows, died Friday night at the age of 86.

Officials at Cedar-Sinai Medical Center, where Marx had been hospitalized for the past two months with a respiratory ailment, said he died at 7:25 p.m. PDT of pneumonia.

With him when he died were his son, Arthur, daughter-in-law, Lois, and grandson, Andrew. His longtime companion Erin Fleming left about 15 minutes earlier.

The most famous and longlasting of the Marx Brothers had lapsed into critical condition early Friday. He slipped in and out of consciousness and family and friends were called to his bedside.

It was the second death of a major American entertainment figure in less than a week, following by three days the death of rock 'n' roll star Elvis Presley from a heart attack in Memphis, Tenn., at age 42.

First word of the death came at 8:17 p.m. after the family had been able to slip quietly out of the hospital and avoid reporters.

Nat Perrin, a longtime friend of Groucho's who was appointed temporary conservator for the disabled comedian during a bitter court battle over his care, said:

"My feeling is very, very sad. The man had a big impact on my life. He lived his life his way. He really did it his way."

Perrin added: "If the man had an impact on my life, he certainly had an impact on the world. It's always sad when any man goes, but it's especially sad when a man of Groucho's stature goes. But he had all his swings at the ball."

"Groucho's just having a nice little dream now," Miss Fleming said in a telephone interview shortly before his death.

Groucho profile on Page 15

"He's just going to have a nap and rest his eyes for centuries," a distraught Miss Fleming told The Associated Press.

Marx had been in fair condition for weeks as he slowly recovered from a bout with pneumonia, but on Wednesday his vital signs became erratic, hospital spokesmen said. Early Friday, he began to lose consciousness and his condition worsened, spokesman Larry Baum said.

Andrew was just named Groucho's conservator, ending a bitter court struggle over the care of the invalid Marx.

Groucho's son Arthur and Miss Fleming were the adversaries in that battle. Arthur Marx portrayed Miss Fleming as a grim, taunting tormentor of his father, while other witnesses claimed Groucho would die without her.

Miss Fleming, nearly 50 years Groucho's junior, left her pursuit of an acting career in 1970 to attend the affairs of Marx fulltime. "Groucho's in love with her," said Zeppo Marx during the conservatorship hearing.

Friends said that Marx, who with his brothers made an art form of zaniness, never knew of the battle being waged over his custody.

He was born Julius Henry Marx on Oct. 2, 1890, in New York City, the middle of five sons. Their mother Minnie, of whom Groucho always spoke in reverential terms, pushed the boys into show business.

The Marx personality emerged early. Because of his sardonic nature, Groucho was so named by a friend who gave the other brothers descriptive handles: Harpo, Chico, Gummo, Zeppo. Groucho's trademark emerged one night when he arrived at a vaudeville theater too late to paste on his stage mustache. He quickly grease-painted a rectangle on his upper lip, adding black eyebrows.

News conference set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will hold a news conference Tuesday afternoon, his press secretary said Friday. It will be his first general news conference since July 28.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the Tuesday meeting will be the President's "regular news conference." It will be available for broadcast.

Carter has said he will hold news conferences twice a month.

He met with reporters Aug. 6 during a visit to his hometown of Plains, Ga., but asked that questions during that session be limited to the welfare program he was announcing at the time.

Billion-mile journey begins for Voyager 2

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Voyager 2 spacecraft begins its billion-mile journey today to gather data about the outer reaches of the solar system. But it's also taking along information about earth — just in case anyone's out there.

Voyager 2 was to begin its journey toward Jupiter and Saturn at 10:25 a.m. (EDT) aboard a Titan Centaur rocket. Space officials predicted good weather for blastoff.

The spacecraft's twin, Voyager 1, isn't scheduled for launch until Sept. 1 but will fly a faster route and be first to reach the two planets, the largest in the solar system.

"The Voyager mission will be carried out in the tradition of Galileo when he first looked through a telescope in 1610," Dr. Edward Stone, a project scientist, said Friday.

"In a sense, the Voyager mission is in the tradition of the step Galileo took. The spacecraft will continue our observation into deep space," he said.

Both Voyagers will carry television cameras and sophisticated instruments for scientific studies, but they also will carry gold-plated records with information about earth for any extra-terrestrial beings who might exist.

The records, called "The Sounds of Earth," contain both video and sound, including a message from President Carter, music from classical to rock, sounds of people kissing, and a picture of a modern American supermarket. The records are mounted on the side of each spacecraft. There are two Voyagers to give project controllers more flight options and increase the chances of success.

PLANE CRASH ON FREEWAY

Modesto paramedic Joan Bonshu comforts Tracy Lease, 14, of Atwater, Calif. who was injured in the crash of a private plane onto Freeway 99 in Modesto Friday. Three died, three were injured including Lease who was in one of the vehicles struck by the airplane. The pilot of the plane and the passenger escaped serious injury.

Three killed as plane crashes on freeway

MODESTO (AP) — A private plane crashed onto Freeway 99 here Friday, killing three people in vehicles on the ground, authorities reported.

The twin-engine plane narrowly missed a street overcrossing near the downtown area and a large truck, then struck the roof of a car and bounced off, the highway patrol reported.

The Piper Navajo hit another car, dropped to the ground and skidded into a pickup and a large truck parked alongside the freeway, officers said.

All of those killed in the noontime crash were in the parked vehicles. The pickup driver had brought gasoline for the large truck which had run out of fuel, an officer reported.

The victims were identified as Wayne Thomas McCracken, 52, of Ceres, operator of the truck; Jewell Katrinka Estes, 40, of Modesto, driver of the pickup; and Mary Ellen Lease, 11, of Atwater, a passenger in the pickup.

The Stanislaus County coroner's office reported at mid afternoon that a fourth person had died but reversed that later and confirmed that three were dead.

The pilot, his passenger and Tracy Lease, 14, sister of the dead girl, were taken to a local hospital where their injuries were described as moderate.

The plane, which was southbound in the same direction as the vehicles, spun 180 degrees from the impact. Its landing gear was thrown about 120-feet south and one propeller was imbedded in dirt under a truck, witnesses said.

The top of one vehicle was flattened, and another truck cab was pushed over at an odd angle.

The pilot, Walter J. Van Heukelem, 37, of Modesto, was being treated for a head injury and forehead laceration, officials at Doctors Hospital said. Van Heukelem flies charter runs for Exec-Air which has offices here and in Stockton.

His passenger, Louis J. Menzies, 39, of Modesto, was treated and released. Menzies said he is president of Price Enterprises, a residential construction firm here.

Torture of U.S. prisoners in Viet by Cubans told

NEW YORK (AP) — A team of Cubans tortured American prisoners of war at a Vietnamese prison camp in 1968, a retired Air Force colonel and Congressional Medal of Honor winner told the New York Daily News in an interview Friday.

Leo R. Thorsness of South Dakota said three Cubans beat Air Force Col. Earl Cobiell, another prisoner, into a catatonic state during one incident, the News reported in a copyright story in its Saturday editions. He said Cobiell later died after refusing to eat and apparently losing all interest in life.

After he was freed from the prisoner of war camp outside Hanoi, known as The Zoo, Defense Department officials told Thorsness not to discuss any Cuban presence at the camp, apparently to avoid endangering any other Americans that might still be held in Vietnam, the News said.

Thorsness said he was breaking his silence because he believed Americans should know of the incidents before the country moves closer to resuming diplomatic relations with Cuba.

The leader of the torture team, Thorsness said, was a Spanish-speaking man the prisoners nicknamed "Fidel." None of the men ever identified themselves as Cubans, but Thorsness said there was little doubt in the prisoners' mind of their nationality.

Jack Bomar of Mesa, Ariz., a retired Air Force colonel and former prisoner of war, said he was tortured by Fidel and said there was no doubt that Fidel was Cuban.

Bomar told the News he thought Fidel was sent to the prison in 1968 to show the Viet Cong how to force American prisoners of war to publicly confess to war crimes.

He said 10 men, including himself, were selected for a "complete submission" program of beatings directed by Fidel.

Panama Canal conflict

Violence promised if U.S. rejects treaty

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Chief Panamanian negotiator Romulo Escobar Bethancourt said Friday that is the U.S. Senate rejects the new Panama Canal treaty, Panamanians will "take a road of violence" to gain control of the waterway.

Panamanian leader Gen. Omar Torrijos has "tried to get the negotiations to work out because we did not want on our conscience the deaths of our youths," Escobar said in a speech to local government officials. The speech was broadcast live over Panamanian radio and television.

The negotiator did not explain what he meant by "road of violence" or whether it would be sanctioned by the government.

Some U.S. officials have said they fear an eruption of anti-American rioting here if the United States delays giving Panama sovereignty over the canal. Treaty negotiations began in 1964 after a wave of rioting by Panamanian students that left 21 Panamanian and three Americans dead.

U.S. and Panamanian negotiators last week signed an agreement on basic principles for a new pact under which the United States would turn over control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000. The treaty, now being drafted, appears headed for stiff opposition in the U.S. Senate.

Tanzania president to seek Britain's aid also

Can U.S. halt Rhodesia race war?

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what may be a last-chance bid to avoid escalating race war in Rhodesia, Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere is attempting to arrange a high-level meeting to review a fresh British-American peace initiative, U.S. officials said Friday.

The meeting would involve United Nations ambassador Andrew Young, British Foreign Secretary David Owen, representatives of Rhodesian black groups contending for power and leaders of the so-called black African front-line states. These include Tanzania, Zambia, Mozambique, Botswana and Angola.

Britain and the United States have announced previously that Owen and Young will travel to southern Africa in the near future to present their proposal for bringing black rule to Rhodesia. But Nyerere's efforts to convene interested parties at one site had not been disclosed.

At some point, during their mission, Owen and Young are expected to go to Rhodesia to explain their proposals to the white government there.

Nyerere's initiative grew out of his state visit to Washington earlier this month when he and President Carter attempted to devise a common diplomatic strategy for dealing with the Rhodesian problem.

Owen and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met last weekend in London to put the finishing touches on the British-American plan. It calls for establishment of a one-man, one-vote system in Rhodesia, a development fund to ease the transition to black rule and the writing of a draft constitution. The target date for the transfer of power would be the end of 1978.

U.S. officials acknowledge they face an uphill fight in gaining acceptance for the plan. Until now, Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith has ruled out a one-man, one-vote approach, and he also has rejected the British-American recommendation that representatives of the Patriotic Front Guerrilla Movement be included in a new Rhodesian government.

A co-leader of the patriotic front, Joshua

Nkomo, met here Monday with Vance and said it is not realistic for Washington and London to talk about writing a draft constitution while a war is going on.

But officials hope that appeals to the self-interest of all parties will help moderate existing positions. Officials believe that Smith, despite his tough talk, may be willing to strike a bargain, mindful that guerrilla activities against his outmanned forces are likely to escalate once the rainy season begins in a few weeks.

Author withdraws item; no explanation given

Hearing to urge Expo 81 support cancelled

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The hearing of a joint resolution urging continued legislative support of Expo 81 Monday has been cancelled at the request of its author.

Fred Taugher, chief administrative officer for the Assembly Rules Committee, confirmed that Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino, withdrew the item pertaining to Assembly Joint Resolution (AJR) 46 early Friday afternoon. The resolution was scheduled to be heard at the Monday session of the Assembly Rules Committee.

Taugher reported that the assemblyman, who introduced the bill with his signature and that of Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-Redlands, and Senator Ruben Ayala, D-Chino, had requested on Aug. 12 that the resolution be reviewed on Aug. 15. After staff noted the short notice on the controversial resolution asking President Carter to issue invitations to countries for the proposed international fair, Goggin agreed to wait until Aug. 22.

Taugher said the hearing and review before the rules committee is a normal procedure of the legislative process. If approved in the rules committee, the resolution would go to the floor of the Assembly and be approved or rejected by the full house. If rejected, it would not reach the Assembly floor, he added.

Taugher said Goggin offerred no reason for withdrawing the resolution from the hearing on Monday and did not ask that it be re-scheduled.

Goggin could not be reached for comment on the matter. Calls to his Sacramento and San Bernardino offices went unanswered.

Citizens Against Expo, an organization of valley residents officially opposing the proposed fair, had organized various representatives to journey to Sacramento to speak against the resolution before the rules committee.

John Moore, a member of the citizens' group, stated that a two-page letter had been sent to each of the seven members of the rules committee which includes Lewis, Louis J. Pappan of Daly City, Larry Chimbole of Lancaster, William Lancaster of Covina, Joseph Montoya of El Monte, Herschel Rosenthal of Los Angeles and William Thomas of Bakersfield.

The resolution urges the president to issue invitations to foreign nations because the fair has local communities' support and it "is necessary to express and establish the fact that support is ongoing, strong and gaining enthusiastic approval each day."

However, Moore pointed out that the cities of Chino, Upland, La Verne, and Montclair, the San Bernardino County Grand Jury, the California Department of Transportation, the California League of Women Voters, the Southern California Association of Governments and others have formally opposed Expo 81. He also cited a recent poll by Assemblyman William McVittie showing that of 6,000 persons questioned 57 per cent were against the fair.

"Thus we say not only is there no growing support, but there is growing opposition," Moore said.

He reiterated the environmental problems of water shortage, sewage and waste disposal, air pollution, public transportation, extended expense and strain on public services and facilities.

Finally, Moore continued, "the financial plan (a $130 million proposed revenue bond issue) would have the State of California issue tax-free bonds for a private enterprise. It is a complicated proposal and should be considered carefully by the public."

Speaks to Claremont Rotary

Lloyd claims Congress 'is hedging' on Canal

By GEORGE MACLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., told members of the Claremont Rotary Club Friday that everyone in Congress is "hedging their bets" on the future of the Panama Canal.

Speaking on the proposed Panama Canal treaty, Lloyd said he doesn't want to give up the Panama Canal, but when telephoned by a fellow congressman about the matter, Lloyd told him he wanted to reserve his judgment.

Lloyd said the Senate has the voice and will sign the treaty, but the House must come up with the money in such an agreement.

As to President Carter and the B-1 bomber, the local legislator said he disagreed with the President. "We agreed that we each disagreed with the other one," he said.

Regarding Israel, Lloyd said he found Carter a rapt and avid listener.

He also reported the U. S. State Department was "really perturbed" when he flew a French Mirage. "But I had a marvelous time."

Lloyd said he wasn't a member of Carter's team, "but he listened." Lloyd referred to his committee's meetings with Carter.

Lloyd said the U. S. cruise missile has not been proven, but the "Russian missiles are not as successful as ours will be."

Speaking to a reportedly overwhelmingly Republican club membership, Lloyd explained there is a much better rapport between Congress and the White House.

"But the President anticipated something different than he really got in Congress," Lloyd explained that Carter had believed Congress would be similar in nature to his legislature in Georgia.

He stressed there had been a new thrust in Congress to put newcomers into some leadership posts. Lloyd also reported the new look in Congress indicates the new representatives are not identified with the old routine of seniority.

Gone is the tradition that "my ideas are no good unless they have been bottled away for at least 10 years," he said.

Lloyd noted the biggest change in Congress has been in the budgetary process. No longer does anyone serve as a committee chairman "at his own pleasure," he noted.

Lloyd took credit for part of the attitude change in Congress. "Those in leadership positions have obligations not only to congressmen, or their cronies, but to the country as a whole," he noted.

He cited a greater openness in Congress. He said visitors to Congress can see what is going on during sessions, but visitors may not really understand.

Some visitors may think congressmen are highly discourteous chatting among themselves while a fellow member speaks, he noted. "But we all know what is going on if we have done our homework. And we know what the individual is going to say."

Lloyd boasted the present Congress has done more than any previous Congress. In a record 114 meetings, Congress worked 563 hours — not including committee meetings, and passed 443 measures of which 75 were enacted into law.

"Only 31 quorum calls were made. Stalling tactics are not necessary."

As to the energy bill which he termed "almost a miracle," Lloyd said "we have done a better job than we had a right to expect."

Some congressmen thought that natural gas should be deregulated, he added. Lloyd said he would have liked to see the energy bill stronger.

Is the black caucus influence stronger or weaker?

"Smoother," Lloyd replied, "not stronger weaker. We have accepted the fact that some of our nation is black. They are not nearly as strident as they were."

But can't say just when

Freeway to be finished

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., said Friday the Foothill Freeway is indeed going to be completed, "but I don't know when."

During a question-and-answer period at the Claremont Rotary Club meeting at Griswold's, Lloyd said the matter is not federal, but Caltrans.

"I see no way it can be dropped," he said. Lloyd explained there are many against the freeway's completion, but there are as many for it.

"There are too many segments of it already completed," said Lloyd. "As to the time frame, I would say from five to 10 years."

Wilson faces 56 counts in busnapping

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Thomas Benton Wilson, 26, appeared in court Friday for arraignment on a total of 53 charges filed in the aftermath of a bizarre hostage incident at a religious camp in the woods near Bonny Doon.

He sat, stiff and ill at ease, while news photographers snapped pictures of him in his rumpled hair and orange prison overalls.

He returned to Santa Cruz County Jail after Municipal Court Judge Richard Kessell continued bail at $500,000 and ordered him to return to court Aug. 23 to enter a plea.

During the brief proceeding, he spoke only once, to answer "yes" when Kessell asked if he wanted Public Defender John Borber to continue as his attorney.

Wilson is charged with 46 counts of false imprisonment, five counts of kidnapping, one count of grand theft and a special allegation of using a firearm.

He is accused of commandeering a Santa Cruz city bus Wednesday and ordering the driver and four passengers at gunpoint to drive him to the Baha'i Faith camp.

There, authorities charge, he took 63 church members hostage for six hours, releasing them in groups, before finally laying down his .22-caliber rifle and setting the last hostages free.

NEW PUPS — Vicki Offerdahl, 16, of Diamond Bar, takes a turn feeding one of the eight abandoned two-day old puppies she found Thursday while horseback riding in Diamond Bar's hills. An appeal is being made for help with caring for the very young four-part mixed breed puppies. They must be fed every two hours.

Saved from coyote, 8 pups need a home

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Candy Colwell of Diamond Bar has ended up in the pet business in a much bigger way than she ever anticipated.

The new venture has come to Mrs. Colwell in the form of eight 3- to 4-day old puppies found abandoned in the rural hill area east of the "Country" development in the Diamond Bar Hills.

The puppies were found Thursday by Vicki Offerdahl, 16, of Diamond Bar who was horseback riding in the area with friends.

A coyote drew the attention of the riding party on Thursday when it was seen sniffing at a cardboard box.

Closer inspection frightened off the coyote, but the surprised riders found the eight mixed breed puppies, only hours old, apparently abandoned in the box.

Miss Offerdahl brought the puppies to Mrs. Colwell, operator of Diamond Bar Feed, Tack and Pet Center in the Alpha Beta shopping center.

Since Thursday, Mrs. Colwell, her husband and daughter have been kept busy administering formula feedings from a baby bottle every two hours to the eight pups.

At this point the Colwells are asking for help. "Since someone apparently abandoned them to such a horrible death," said Mrs. Colwell, "we feel obliged to do what we can to see that they survive."

With pups of such a young age, the pound or humane society would have to destroy them, theorizes Mrs. Colwell. "Feeding alone takes over an hour. We have them in a box here at the store with a heating pad. At night we have to take all eight of them home in order to continue the feedings."

Mrs. Colwell is appealing to the community for volunteers to aid in the baby bottle feedings of the pups or to see if anyone would be interested in adopting them.

Those who would like to help may contact Mrs. Colwell at the store, 596-4389.

How the pups came to be in the field no one can say. They were simply left in a cardboard box — which was quickly ruined by the week's heavy rainstorm — without food or water.

Mrs. Colwell said the coyote was apparently ready to attack when the riders approached.

"If someone with a bitch who has just had a litter or who has just lost a litter could take them or even one of them, it would ease the situation considerably," she said.

The pups are said to appear to be a four-part mixture of Collie, Labrador, Great Dane and Australian Shepherd.

"They look as though they will make a pretty good size dog," said Mrs. Colwell.

Those who would like to help may contact Mrs. Colwell at the store, 596-4389.

Diamond Bar high school site favored

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

A proposed high school in the community of Diamond Bar has emerged as the most attractive of two sites presently under consideration by the Pomona school board.

In an engineering report on the two sites released by the architectural firm of Cashion and Horie, Pomona school trustees were told that development costs for site preparation were lower on the Diamond Bar site at the northeast corner of Golden Springs Road and the Pomona Freeway than the Phillips Ranch site north of Mission Boulevard by better than three to one.

Estimates for grading and site preparation for the Diamond Bar site came in at approximately $750,000 while cost estimates for the Phillips Ranch site topped out at better than $3.6 million.

The report drew some criticism from Phillips Ranch developer Al Lessor who complained that the report had ignored figures which he had supplied the architects. Lessor said he was not advocating his parcel of land over the Diamond Bar parcel. He said that should the board agree with the figures in the report, then the Diamond Bar site would seem best suited to the district's needs.

Architect Mark Horie told trustees that figures in the report could not be considered solid estimates of the actual costs involved in site preparation because there still remained too many variables in the grading work. He did say, however, that the figures could be viewed with some assurance as showing the relative costs involved.

Should the district decide to follow the report's findings, the Diamond

Bar site would seem the natural selection. Although Lessor has agreed to donate his site free of charge, the $3.6 million development costs would far exceed the Diamond Bar site even when the $900,000 purchase price sought by the Transamerica Development Co. is figured in. The $900,000 price tag is good through the end of the present calendar year, said Transamerica officials. After that, it will begin to climb by about one per cent per month.

Trustee Francis Livingston moved that the board accept the report. But trustee C. Allen Braswell noted that before any additional action be taken by the board, a formal vote of intent to proceed with a high school in Diamond Bar should be taken.

Said Braswell, "I am asking that we make a decision as a board stating that we are committing ourselves to a high school in Diamond Bar and that we then establish a time line to do the work."

Braswell's comments were agreed with by board President Don Donnelly who noted that while the board has done a great deal of research and study into the Diamond Bar high school sites, no formal vote has been taken on the when and the how of the school's construction.

Mrs. Livingston said a special study session would probably be advisable so that the board could take a deeper look into the subject.

District Supt. Charles Carpenter said the staff could have additional information on enrollment projections ready for the board's Aug. 30 meeting.

Consensus was reached that, since the district already spent $10,000 to $15,000 on site studies, no additional monies should be spent until formal action is taken.

Campus security guards' routine not so uneventful

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona school district's security office is headquartered at an old desk in a janitor's office behind the Education Center.

John Franklin, the head security guard, is a nine-year veteran of the Toledo, Ohio police force. He heads a staff of five officers — four men and a woman. None is a duly sworn officer, which officers said leaves them personally liable for their actions without any official protection from the district.

They also claim this hampers their authority in dealing with some members of the tougher element.

The officers represent $111,000 of the district's $418,000 security budget. The remainder goes to the Valley Alarm Co. ($38,000), equipment ($12,000) and school proctors ($256,000).

A recent ride with the officers, Ed Harden, La Verne Johnson, Sam Chestnut, Mike Marks and Franklin, was uneventful but did give an indication of the officers' problems encountered from day-to-day.

For example, all the officers have been fired on during the course of their duties. Having a rock or bottle tossed at the vehicle is not uncommon.

On the recent ride, the most serious incident encountered was some red paint smeared over the doors and windows at one of the district's elementary schools.

As the guards arrived, the paint was still wet and running down the doors. Harden and Johnson believed those responsible were probably near and had seen the officers arrive.

"Actually, our worst problem is with the young adult fresh out of school coming back on campus," said Johnson. "We can't threaten them with being thrown out of school. They're already out."

A drive through the campuses can be both enlightening and frustrating to the officers. On close inspection, numerous bullet holes show up in windows and doors.

"This one," said Marks, "is a BB. This one is probably from a good-sized rifle."

The officers were concerned their reports had little or no influence in the district. There are sprinklers that water concrete instead of the grass, and shrubbery allowed to grow too high which could possibly conceal a burglar.

District Supt. Charles Carpenter said the officers' reports are considered by the maintenance staff and that Franklin's position of chief security guard was upgraded from its previous level to deal specifically with these kinds of problems. He said reports are considered and appropriate actions taken.

Marks said a day's events can be unpredictable. "We found a dog locked in the office at one school. Still don't know how he got there."

But Chestnut pointed with pride that vandalism has been cut 50 per cent at the schools since the patrol was started over 10 years ago.

"If you are able to stop a fire or an act of vandalism or save the taxpayers some money, you can take some pride in that," he said.

Soap Box Derby ready

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — One hundred seventy-three miniature racers will vie for a pair of championships today in the 40th All-American Soap Box Derby.

Today's winners will have crossed the finish line at about 35 miles an hour, about 27 seconds after their start down the 950-foot Derby Downs track.

Junior division winners receive plaques. The top three in the senior division receive scholarships of $3,000, $2,000 and $1,000 respectively.

Last year, Novar Electronics Corp. of suburban Barberton pledged annual backing of $165,000.

HERE COME DE JUDGES

recently captured a first-place team plaque in a national judging contest at Albuquerque. Wendy was awarded the top individual trophy.

U.S. National Arabian Horse Judging Competition

Cal Poly coeds win judging contest

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Four Cal Poly Pomona coeds have reached a pinnacle few women ever attain: a victory in the U.S. National Arabian Horse Judging Competition at Albuquerque.

Competing as a team which was judged as tops among 25 other four and five-member groups from throughout the nation were Wendy Searcy, Kathy Callahan, Cheryl Fussell, and Jill Lloyd.

Each received a plaque for her efforts during a pressure-packed weekend. Miss Searcy earned an extra credit: the high individual overall championship.

It is not often that people hear about judges being judged by other judges, but that was the case in the recent competition.

The girls judged Arabians, then had to justify their decisions.

"It was put on for college students," explained Miss Lloyd, 20, a senior specializing in agricultural journalism. "Besides a student's learning to evaluate livestock, judging develops confidence, ability to make a decision, and speaking ability."

"We each had to make an oral presentation of justifying our grading," she said. "We judged the Arabians in conformance and equitation."

"Judging is extremely educational because a person acquires a vast knowledge about animals," said Miss Searcy, 21, a senior majoring in animal science. "A person is trained through judging to have convictions. He or she also learns poise and self-confidence."

Miss Searcy is engaged to a man whom she met on a judging trip to Twin Falls, Idaho. Mark Mullion is a graduate of Fresno State.

A veteran in judging is Miss Fussell, 21, a senior and an agricultural business major. Miss Fussell has been judging Future Farmers of America contests since she was 14.

She stressed something that has always been evident in judging circles — that most judges are men, and that she and her three Cal Poly classmates are in the minority.

She wants to be a vocational agriculture teacher. "I think there are many opportunities open," she said. "The urban kids want to learn about farming."

Fourth of the winning quartet is Miss Callahan, a junior majoring in animal science. She explained that she was attracted to the adventure of animal judging by Duane Sharp, professor of animal science at Cal Poly.

"Dr. Sharpe announced that there was a need for volunteers who wanted to learn how to judge, and I thought it would be fun," she remarked.

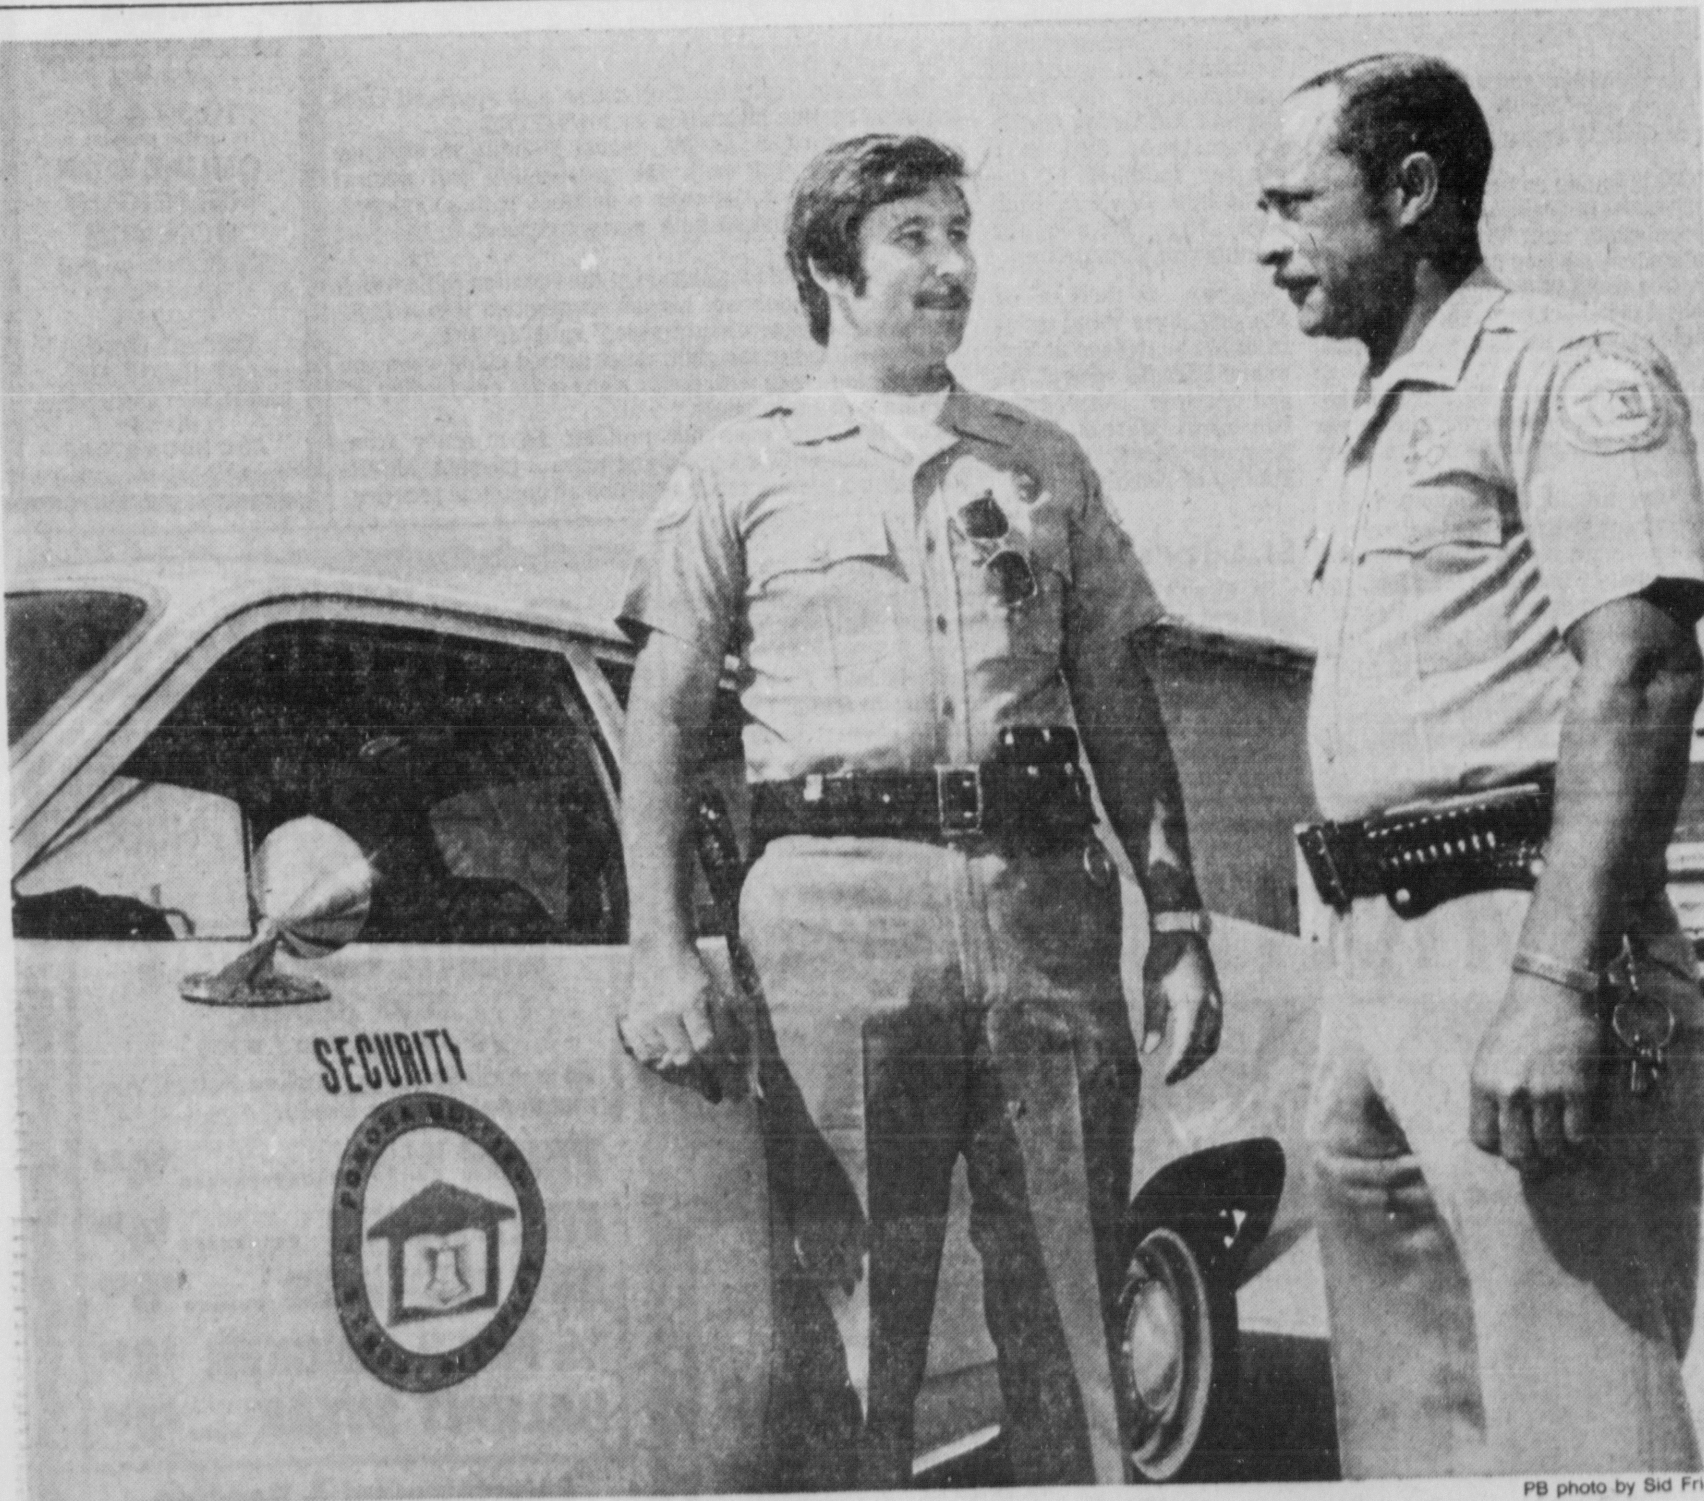

"So far it has been," she commented.

All the women except Miss Callahan are veterans in the judging of beef, sheep and swine. All except Miss Fussell have had 4-H training.

They all enjoy the camaraderie that develops at judging contests among the participants.

In October they hope to fly to Portland, Ore. for livestock judging.

When asked if they are extroverts, Miss Fussell replied, "If you're not when you start judging, you will be when you get through."

FEELING SECURE

ing off on their daily patrol. The district has six full-time security officers patrolling its 31 schools.

Strikes loom in four state districts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sounding like the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, superintendents of four of California's largest school districts Friday predicted strikes, cutbacks and a lowering in the quality of education.

At a press conference called to support legislation aimed at bolstering public school financing, superintendents from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and San Diego urged action by the state legislature and Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Pointing to a California Supreme Court ruling that outlawed the property tax as the bulwark of public school education, officials at the news conference said the Legislature must give school districts more money, or else.

—Robert Alioto of San Francisco predicted "a massive (teacher) strike."

—Ruth Love of Oakland said her district could not support planned educational programs or meet obligations made in collective bargaining.

Thomas Goodman of San Diego said school financing had been "ignored" for 10 years.

"It's unbelievable, it's tragic," said William Johnston of Los Angeles.

Population rise L.A. County school post announced

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Bulgaria's population grew from 3.7 million persons in 1900 to 8.7 million in 1975, the news agency BTA reported. Nearly 60 per cent of the population resides in urban districts.

On campus

With the start of CHAFFEY COLLEGE's fall quarter, education will be all in the family again at the Children's Center here.

The qualification of student families returning for the Sept. 13 to Dec. 8 quarter in terms of income status is set for Aug. 29.

The enrollment calendar (8 a.m. to 4 p.m.) for both one and two-parent families is:

—Aug. 31-Sept. 1 — returning full-time, low and moderate-income students and part-time moderate-income students.

—Sept. 1-2 — new full-time, low-income students.

—Sept. 6-7 — new full-time, moderate-income students.

—Sept. 8 — new part-time, moderate-income students.

A full-time student is one taking 12 or more units.

Student-parent orientation will be at 6 p.m., Sept. 8; children's orientation in one-hour sessions from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

During the school year, the center is open from 6:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, and 6:30 to noon, Fridays. The program is keyed to the developmental age levels of 2 through 5 years by day and 2 through 10 years after 4 p.m.

The center offers a broad spectrum of enrichment experiences for children, said coordinator Patricia Mohr. She cited such examples in the program as painting, cooking, singing, field trips, making friends, relating to others and developing a sense of self-worth.

Income status and eligibility priority are determined by state criteria. A sliding scale fee of free to $1.05 an hour is charged according to financial resources.

Information on enrollment procedures, qualification and other data may be obtained by calling the center at 987-1737, ext. 411.

Orientation sessions for women planning to attend CHAFFEY COLLEGE in the fall quarter are slated for Monday in the Ontario library and on Thursday in the Upland library.

Both sessions will start at 10 a.m. with staff members from the Women's Center making the presentation and answering questions.

Registration for the fall quarter will be on Aug. 31 - Sept. 1 and Sept. 6 - 7 on the Alta Loma campus. Students may register for off-campus classes as early as 4 to 8 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday, at Chaffey's Ontario-Montclair Center and Corona High School. The fall quarter extends from Sept. 13 to Dec. 8.

Discussed in the orientation sessions will be admissions, recommended classes for new students, class add or drop procedures, petitioning for a place in a closed class, and student services.

For more information, persons may call the Women's Center at 987-1737, ext. 371.

Registration arrangements for fall semester classes at CITRUS COLLEGE should be completed soon, said Donald Madsen, college vice president, student personnel.

Application forms and a registration appointments may be obtained at the admissions office, located in the Administration Building. A new, computerized application procedure enables actual registration to be completed within one-half hour, according to Madsen, once the application form has been completed and transcripts are on file. Registration continues from now through Sept. 1.

Hours are 10 to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to noon, Friday and Saturday. All registration is in the admissions office.

Students who are unable to register during the scheduled registration period may apply for late registration on or after Sept. 2.

The SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY AT CLAREMONT this fall is offering the three-year master of divinity degree in addition to its traditional four-year doctor of ministry degree, as the basic professional education required by most main line denominations for ordination in the Christian ministry.

Claremont pioneered the four-year requirement in the 1960s, a procedure backed by the American Association of Theological Schools in 1970.

This new program is to offer a choice to students who felt pressed over the immediate requirement for that extra year of time and money.

They may now sign up for either one with the further option of staying the fourth year for the doctorate after finishing their master of divinity degree.

LA VERNE COLLEGE is facing an upswing in enrollment this fall. One of the areas of greatest growth will be the foreign student population, said Virginia Manley, newly selected foreign student adviser at LVC.

The campus has admitted some 55 foreign students for the coming semester, but it is not yet known how many of those students will be able to obtain necessary visas prior to the beginning of school.

Mrs. Manley said she has several programs in the works to help the students to their new surroundings, but her first priority is finding housing for all the students who need it.

Overseas projects under way to aid the students from outside include a host family program and a "buddy system." Under the host family program, an area family volunteers to act as a home away from home for a foreign student. While the amount of contact between family and student is up to the individuals involved, students are often invited for a meal or to a holiday celebration with the family.

Any persons interested in renting a room or apartment to a LVC foreign student should contact Mrs. Manley at 593-8627.

HAROLD HAYES

Montclair mayor is Omnitrans board V.C.

Harold Hayes, mayor of Montclair, is the 1977-78 vice chairman of the Omnitrans board of directors.

Supervisor Robert Hammock of San Bernardino will serve as chairman of the agency which serves as the public transit operator in San Bernardino County.

Hayes has served 18 years on the Montclair City Council, first elected in 1959, and 12 of those years has been as mayor. He is the first mayor elected by the people in the West End city.

He is a past president of the old City-County Coordinating Council in San Bernardino County; past president of the West Valley Transit Service Authority; past president of the League of California Cities; and past president of the Inland Counties Health Systems Agency.

Presently, Hayes serves as a delegate to the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG), the West End Task Force of the Inland Counties Health Systems Agency and the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) standing committee on comprehensive health in San Bernardino County.

He is also a director of the Citrus Belt Division of the League of California Cities, serves as the league's representative to the State Transportation Committee, acts as chairman of the state Federal Aid Urban (FAU) Committee; and is a charter member of the Montclair Kiwanis Club and the Montclair Chamber of Commerce.

Hayes, a native of Pomona, lives three miles from his birthplace at Sixth and Parcels streets. He and his wife, Doris, have two sons, Harold L. of Newport News, Va. and Stanley of Needles.

St. Lucy's fall term

St. Lucy's Priory High School, Glendora, will start the fall term on Aug. 31, with its largest enrollment, some 389 girls.

Sept. 1-9 will be minimum day schedules for students. New teachers this fall, according to Sister Francis, principal, will be Sister Roberta, Sister Mary Pius, Marguerite Castro Newhouse, Sue Buehler, Maryann Blake Clampett and Maurya Morarty.

Political arena

Legislation by SEN. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-33rd Dist., Hacienda Heights, creating a small claims court hearing procedure for disputed utility charges amounting to $750 or less has passed the Assembly Finance, Insurance and Commerce Committee.

Campbell said that "many Californians are overbilled or have legitimate claims against utility companies and are faced with cumbersome and involved processes of hearings before the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) before they recover their money."

"Frequently," he said, "consumers will abandon claims rather than endure the journey through the bureaucratic maze. My bill offers a simplified alternative."

S. B. 266 is supported by the Public Utilities Commission and now will be considered by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

RICHARD SCHMIDT

United Way East Zone chairman is named

Richard E. Schmidt, manager of the Pomona district office of the Automobile Club of Southern California, has been named chairman for East Zone, Region II of the United Way of Los Angeles County.

A member of the automobile club staff since 1964, Schmidt became manager of the Pomona office in 1976.

He has been chairman of the transportation and safety committee of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Riverside County Economic and Development Committee and a director for the Opera Association of Riverside.

In addition, Schmidt has been active in the Glendora Jaycees, Covina's Toastmaster Club 112, Boys Scouts and the Rotary Club.

He served in the Air Force, including duty in England and Germany, and attended Citrus College.

The East Zone of the United Way includes Pomona, Claremont, Diamond Bar, La Verne, San Dimas and Walnut.

The 1977-78 campaign will start in mid-September.

State rent assistance extension

California senior citizens requesting forms required to file for state rent assistance will receive an automatic extension until Sept. 30.

Only 62,000 of the 200,000 California seniors eligible have filed claims, according to the California Department of Aging. Because of this, the California Franchise Tax Board is granting this automatic filing extension. Requests, however, must be received before Aug. 31.

The Senior Citizens Rent Assistance Law, enacted last year by the state legislature, grants assistance to those 62 and older as of Jan. 1, who rented between July 1, 1976 and June 30, 1977, and who had $5,000 or less in income last year.

Many seniors aren't aware of the new program. Some who claimed the $37 renter's credit on their income tax return believe this disqualifies them for rent assistance. The receipt of the $37 renter's credit has no bearing on the senior's eligibility for rent assistance.

Individuals who believe they qualify should contact the nearest California Franchise Tax Board office.

Shots to be given in Montclair Sunday

The San Bernardino County Public Health Department will provide immunizations at the Doctors Hospital in Montclair Health Fair on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

It will be an opportunity for parents to get their children ready for school. There will be no charge for the immunizations.

Recently the Ontario-Montclair school board approved a policy which would bar from school those children who do not have proof of the required immunizations.

The immunizations for entry to school are D.P.T., (diphtheria, pertussis or whooping cough, and tetanus), measles and polio. It is also recommended that children receive rubella and mumps immunizations.

Parents must bring immunization records with the child to the health fair to be sure children get the correct immunizations or booster.

Rabies inoculation clinic scheduled

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley has scheduled a dog rabies inoculation clinic Aug. 30 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Suzanne School in Walnut.

The clinic is for dog owners needing both the shot and license. Those needing just the license should apply at the Walnut City Hall or at the animal shelter, 500 Humane Way, Pomona. Cost of the inoculation at the clinic will be $2 per dog. Cost of the license will be $5 for the spayed and/or neutered dog and $10 for the unaltered dog. A valid veterinarian's certificate of spaying or neutering must be presented at the time of applying for a license.

Only persons capable of handling their dogs and lifting it upon the vaccination table will be allowed at the clinic. All dogs must be contained on a leash. The society will conduct a house-to-house campaign, checking for unlicensed dogs in Walnut. Dog owners found in violation will be cited and have to pay an additional penalty said officials.

Pacific State appointments announced

Four appointments to the Pacific State Hospital Advisory Board have been made by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

They are Robert Shushan, 48, of Sherman Oaks, Robert King, 59, of Montebello, Douglas S. Fratt, 52, of Hacienda Heights, and Charles Keeran, 51, of Fullerton.

Shushan has served as executive director of the Exceptional Children's Foundation in Los Angeles for 18 years. Prior to that, he was a teacher, counselor and administrator on the secondary level with the Los Angeles Unified School District.

A Democrat, Shushan's term expires Jan. 1, 1978. The position was newly created by 1975 legislation.

Valley employers receiving warnings

Asbestos use deadline set

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Many valley employers are among the 70,000 California firms receiving letters this week from the state Department of Health warning them to report asbestos use before Sept. 1.

Reporting is required under a new state law which took effect this year in an effort to prevent job-related cancer. Asbestos has been proven as a cause of human cancer.

Industry sources estimate 135,000 California workers may be exposed to asbestos fibers on their jobs.

A mineral prized for its strength, versatility and fire-resistant qualities, asbestos has some 3,000 commercial uses, including automotive brake linings and clutches, pipe manufacturing, shipbuilding, fireproofing and construction.

Occupations with significant potential exposure to asbestos include shipbuilding workers, asbestos and insulation workers, pipefitters, construction and demolition workers, and mechanics who work with auto, bus and truck brakes and clutches.

In addition to lung cancer, asbestos fibers are known to cause a rarer form of cancer called mesothelioma, and asbestosis, a lung-scarring disease which impairs lung function. Typically, these diseases are detected only years after prolonged, excessive exposure to asbestos fibers.

Dr. Jerome A. Lackner, state health director, announced that employers who fail to report asbestos use by Sept. 1 risk a $500 fine.

Dr. Lackner and Donald Vial, director of the state Department of Industrial Relations, both signed the employer-alert letters because both departments jointly administer the program designed to protect workers.

Serious safety violations involving asbestos, and any of the other 15 cancer-causing substances now regulated by the state, can bring private sector employers $1,000 fines and repeat violations fines of $5,000. While public employers are exempt from the fines, they must report asbestos use and follow safe working practices, Dr. Lackner said.

Employers must report the use to the state Division of Industrial Safety, 455 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, 94102, giving type and use and number of employees.

University Club program set

Kelvin Keene Larson and his wife, Patricia, of Palm Springs, will conduct the program for University Club of Claremont Tuesday noon at Griswold's.

The Larsons are partners in the farming of table grapes in the Coachella Valley. They will discuss "Management Problems of Viticulture."

Keene, a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, attended UCLA Law School and entered farming in 1952. Mrs. Larson, a UCLA graduate, is a member of the Palm Springs school board and past president of the Riverside County School Board Association.

They will be introduced Tuesday by Howell Webb of Claremont.

Valley churches

Bethany Baptist Church

The Rev. D.L. Bray, pastor of the Bethany Baptist Church in Montclair, will return to the pulpit at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services Sunday.

He has returned from a tour of the Holy Land.

At 4 p.m., the church will have a barbeque, featuring musical entertainment. The 6 p.m. service will follow the barbeque.

Claremont United Methodist

Michael D. Parker, the church's director of youth and educational ministries, will preach Sunday at the 9:15 a.m. service at the Claremont United Methodist Church. He is active in religious education circles in the Pacific and Southwest Conference of the United Methodist Church and in the Pomona Valley Council of Churches.

Claremont First Baptist

The First Baptist Church of Claremont will have its annual all-church picnic and barbeque at the home of the pastor, the Rev. Frank McCullough, Sunday at 5 p.m.

First Lutheran Church

The First Lutheran Church in Pomona will observe its annual "Friends and Good Neighbors" program on Sunday.

The service at 9 a.m. will include the baptism of two Vietnamese children from refugee families.

Claremont Presbyterian

The Rev. Robert Holmes will be the guest minister at the Claremont Presbyterian Church Sunday at the 10 a.m. service.

He is pastor of the United Presbyterian churches of Mapleton and Mt. Union, Pa.

First Church of Nazarene

Dr. Orpha Speicher, missionary for 40 years in India, will speak at the 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. services Sunday at the Pomona First Church of the Nazarene.

She founded and served as superintendent of Reynolds Memorial Hospital in Washim, Maharashtra, India. She will tell of her experiences and life on the mission field during the morning service. During the evening service, the film, "To Wipe the Tear," will be shown. This is the story of her life and ministry.

Community Free Methodist

The Community Free Methodist Church in Chino will have its vacation Bible school Monday through Friday, with sessions starting at 6:30 p.m.

The program will feature Mrs. Vivian Bonham, a ventriloquist. Prizes will be given each night.

The church is meeting temporarily at 13050 Second St., Chino.

Community Church of God

A vacation Bible school will be held Monday through Friday at the Community Church of God in Pomona.

Classes will be held from 9 a.m. to noon. The theme is "Sing It Out, Jesus Loves You." The program will feature Bible stories, crafts, recreation and refreshments. The school will conclude with a picnic on Aug. 27. Carolyn Anderson is the director and Doretta Standifer, assistant director.

For more information, persons may phone 626-9715 or 626-1916.

Good Shepherd Lutheran

A women's quartet will offer a special anthem Sunday at the 9:30 a.m. worship service at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Claremont.

Valley Community Drive-in

Dr. Vincent Bennett, a Bible teacher and former professor at Azusa Pacific College, will preach at the 8:30 and 10 a.m. worship services Sunday at the Valley Community Drive-In Church, San Dimas. His topic will be "The Man Whose Life is Blessed by God."

Sunday school for children in sixth grade and younger is conducted at 10 and classes for those from seventh grade through adulthood are held at 11:15.

At 8 p.m., the second half of the movie, "Quo Vadis?" will be shown. Starring Robert Taylor, Deborah Kerr and Peter Ustinov, the film tells of the struggles between Christians and non-Christians which ends in the destruction of Rome. Admission is free but a voluntary offering will be received.

Metropolitan Baptist Church

The Metropolitan Baptist Church in Pomona will hold an appreciation service Sunday at 3 p.m.

Guest churches will be the Travelers Rest Baptist Church of Los Angeles and the Antioch Baptist Church in Pomona.

Grace Baptist Church

Steve Farrar will be greeted Sunday as the new youth minister at Grace Baptist Church in Glendora.

He is a graduate of Western Conservative Baptist Seminary at Portland, and has served as youth minister at several West Coast churches.

He and his wife, Mary, will be presented to the congregation during the 7:30 p.m. service.

S.D. United Methodist

The Rev. T. Willard Hunter, communications assistant at the School of Theology in Claremont, will preach the next three Sundays at the San Dimas United Methodist Church. Services start at 10:30 a.m.

The church will end its summer program Sept. 14 to 16 with a vacation church school. Sessions will be held from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Offbeat ministry of the 'Chaplain of Bourbon Street'

NEW YORK (AP)—The big, glib Rev. Bob Harrington, "chaplain of Bourbon Street" in the jazz and strip section of old New Orleans, is loaded with one-liners for his trade: "You don't need 80-proof booze in your body when you've got the 100-proof Lord in your heart."

He packs such quick, crisp sayings into a roving, offbeat ministry, which he carries on not only in the street's, clubs and bars, but on records, radio, television and in guest appearances at conventions, organizational meetings, church rallies, state fairs and country-music concerts.

An "inspirational entertainer," he styles himself and he wraps his messages in showmanship. "It's the sizzle to help me sell my steaks," he says. And he lays on his zippy maxims of faith in rapid-fire order:

"It's fun being saved ... Fun is not a beanie cap and propeller. Fun is having a hand on the handle of life ... It's having your act together, a faith to live by and a purpose to live for ... It's not what you stop doing, but what you start doing."

In an interview, the Rev. Mr. Harrington, 49, a 6-foot-2, 240-pound man in bright blue leisure suit, a gold-colored pendant at his neck, said with characteristic gusto:

"I want every eye in America to see, every ear in America to hear and every heart in America to know it's fun being saved."

Of his work on his home grounds where he and 10

assistants, three of them also ordained ministers, have their office and chapel on the second floor above Pete Fountain's club, amid the peep shows, topless bars, jazz halls and pick-up joints, he said:

"I can walk down Bourbon Street with a Bible in my hand, the Lord in my heart and a smile on my face, and people point. The crowds come from all over the world, not to see me, but I let them. The Lord Jesus identified with people where the people are."

Gadflies of Catholicism debate changes in church

NEW YORK (AP) — Some international gadflies of Roman Catholicism sat around the big table, articulate, brainy, congenial, talking of the way they felt the church should go to deepen its influence in the world.

"The present system just is not functioning at all," said the Rev. Hans Kung, a noted Swiss theologian. "But the conservatives in Rome prefer not to do anything about it."

"Probably they are afraid," observed the Rev. Petr Huizing, a Dutch canon law expert.

The Rev. Jacques-Marie Pohier, a French moral theologian, said, "There must be a change in balance from the Roman Curia to the Local Churches."

"The leadership," added a German theologian, the Rev. Johannes Baptist Metz, "must be understood in a more administrative rather than juristic (legalizing) way."

The four, gathered for a news conference here, had just come from a conference at the University of Notre Dame of leading

Roman Catholic thinkers on further reforms needed in the church.

About 70 scholars had been there, including top intellectual luminaires from this country and abroad. Among them were the 30 board members of "Concilium", an international publishing project which annually issues 10 volumes at the forefront of contemporary Christian thought.

At the Manhattan offices of Seabury Press, which produces the flow of exploratory books on doctrine, liturgy, morality and social issues, the four prominent Catholic professors reviewed the present climate.

"It's a process of collision and purification," said Father Metz of the University of Munster in West Germany, a dark-haired man in an open shirt collar, citing the current church strains between conservatives and progressives.

Father Pohier of the University of Paris, a balding, grey-suited man, suggested that church attempts to impose uniform, world-wide sexual rules may be undercutting greater obligations.

"Maybe control of sexual life is not so important as the church thought," he remarked. Citing needs to fight exploitation and injustice, he said, "Maybe this is more important than sexual life."

"Law is made for members of the church — members are not made for the law," said Father Huizing of the Catholic University of the Netherlands at Nijmegen. "It is to guard people."

Spectacles underlining

his high forehead, he said it was essential to "change the image" of a pyramid-ruler church governed from top downward.

"It can't anymore work efficiently in this way," he said. He said its initiatives must flow from local churches working together across denominational lines.

Father Kung who teaches at the University of Tubingen in West Germany, his blond hair swept back, said, "A lot is going on at local church levels without approval. It will help church authorities to acknowledge reality."

The four said the Notre Dame conference, held under the title of "Toward Vatican III" and the work needing done before another reforming council to follow Vatican II of 1962-65, brought out a consensus favoring these changes:

—Acknowledgement of the ministry of Protestant churches as valid and affirmation of intercommunion with them.

—Local elections of bishops, a reduction of the power of the church's central government, the Roman Curia, and an age limit for popes.

—Modification of the doctrine of "papal infallibility" (An authority only used once, and which the scholars unanimously predicted will never be used again).

—Revocation of the church's prohibition against contraception.

—Admission to communion of divorced, remarried Catholics.

—Making priestly celibacy optional and admission of women to the priesthood.

Organ recital in Claremont

An organ recital by Dr. Wilbur Held will be presented at the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational Sunday, at 4 p.m.

He is professor emeritus of music at Ohio State University, where he taught organ and church music from 1947 to 1977. He is a fellow of the American Guild of Organists, serves on the National Council of the Hymn Society of America, and has published numerous compositions for organ and choral groups. He is the brother of the senior minister of the Claremont church.

A reception will be served by the music committee in the Louise Roberts Room of the church following the recital. An offering will be received to cover the costs of the recital and for the

Hassids bear burden with enthusiasm

NEW YORK (AP) — A man was carrying a heavy load of rocks up a steep hill on a hot day, sweating and stumbling under the weight. A bystander asked if he might add still another stone to the load, and the burdened man blurted an angry refusal.

Later, another man was carrying an equally heavy sack of diamonds up the same steep hill, but he bore it happily, whistling a tune. A bystander asked if he might add still another diamond to the precious cargo, and the man welcomed it with a smile.

The story is one of the great, old tales of Hassidic Judaism that points to a truth, and in this case, it was used by Rabbi Shmuel M. Butman to explain how the Hassidim bear the heavy regimen of their detailed, exacting Jewish orthodoxy, yet do it gladly and with verve.

"If Judaism is just a rigorous burden, it means agony, but if it's a diamond, adherence to its law is beautiful and joyous—it's happiness," he said in an interview, citing the movement's lively and spreading tactics to revive traditional Jewish practices.

In regard to the 613 commandments of the Torah, the first five books of the Bible, he said the Hassidim "go beyond the call of duty. They do more than duty requires, and do it with more spirit, energy and enthusiasm. That's why singing and dancing plays such an important role in Hassidic life."

Rabbi Butman, 34, director of the youth organization of the Lubavitch movement, the major branch of the ultra-orthodox Hassidim that originated in eastern Europe two centuries ago, says the youth group's "Mitzvah Mobiles" have now fanned out across this country, and also abroad.

"It's a growing operation," he said. Sometimes called "synagogues on wheels" or "tanks against assimilation," the traveling teaching units were introduced in New York in 1974 to stimulate wider Jewish observance of "mitzvos" (Scriptural commandments).

From a single van tried at the start, the strategy now has been expanded to a fleet of more than 100 brightly painted, modern camper units operating in a dozen cities across the nation. Many other units also are operating in Europe, South America, Australia, South Africa and Israel.

The Lubavitcher Hassidim number about 500,000 worldwide of whom about 20,000 live in Brooklyn, site of the movement's international headquarters, headed by Rabbi Menachem M. Schneerson, recently turned 75. Hassidic men never shave. They always wear hats or yarmulkes. The women wear modern but "modest" dress—no short sleeves nor short skirts, nor pants suits.

"We interpret the law strictly," Rabbi Butman said. "We're strict with ourselves. We also care about those who aren't. It's a lot of happiness and joy, a way of life."

Valley churches

Trinity Lutheran Church

The Trinity Lutheran Church of Pomona will conduct a vacation Bible school Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Children in kindergarten through sixth grades are invited. Bible stories, songs, and hand work will be featured. The theme is "Reach Out." For further information persons may call 622-2744.

San Dimas Community

The Rev. Mary Ellen Kilsby will be guest speaker Sunday at the San Dimas Community Church while the Rev. Kenneth B. McCandless is on vacation.

She is a member of the staff of the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational.

Chino First Baptist Church

The Rev. Herbert Dominguez, associate minister of youth and young adults for the American Baptist Churches of the Pacific Southwest, will preach Sunday at 11 a.m. at the First Baptist Church in Chino.

He is a graduate of the California Baptist Theological College and American Baptist Seminary of West in Covina, was ordained in Arlington and was pastor of Baptist churches in Buttonwillow, Fountain Valley and Ojai.

Covenant United Methodist

The Covenant United Methodist Church will conduct its vacation Bible school Monday through Friday.

Sessions will be held daily from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The theme is "Sing it Out, Jesus Loves You." The program will include Bible stories, crafts and recreation. The school is open to children, three years through sixth grade.

Youth Congress to convene

The 34th annual state Youth Congress of Southern California will convene Tuesday at the New Gethsemane Church of God in Christ in Pomona.

Delegates from Southern California will participate in seminars and lectures. The seminar ends Saturday. A musical will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at 800 S. Garey Ave., Pomona.

President of the Congress is the Rev. Joseph Mayfield. He has presided for the past 15 years. He is pastor of the Greater Revival Center Tribestone in Los Angeles. He is a retired school psychologist of the Los Angeles School District.

Tuesday night has been designated as "Civic Night," with guest speakers to include: Pomona Mayor Charles Bader; Fran Livingston, a Pomona school board member; and Henry Williams of the 51 percenters Organization. Delegates will be housed at Claremont Men's College.

Cal Poly's Darlene May becomes first woman ref

SOFIA, Bulgaria — Even though women have been licensed by the International Federation of Basketball Associations to referee international games two years ago, no woman had cracked the all-male bastion — until last Friday.

It was then that the woman who had previously been the first female licensed by the FIBA also became the first lady to referee an international basketball contest. Darlene May, who is also the women's athletic director at Cal Poly Pomona, earned the honor by working the women's game between Yugoslavia and Denmark at the World University Games.

While the taller and more experienced Yugoslavs emerged victorious, 66-37, the real story was May's breaking into a previously male-dominated area.

"After it was over, the Danish team shook my hand and said they really enjoyed my calling," she said. "We think it's a real breakthrough," remarked Bill Wall, executive director of the U.S. Amateur Basketball Association. "I think we'll be seeing women referees at the Olympics and men's college games within five years."

May said that lobbying by U.S. women's sports groups got her the invitation to accompany the American team to Sofia to officiate at the 17-nation women's basketball tournament.

"When I arrived, Bill Wall said I might have to officiate some of the men's games," she said. "I'm willing to do this, but I can't say I'd look forward to it. Men basketball players are bigger, quicker and faster than women, and it would be tougher to keep up."

While May serves as Cal Poly women's AD and coached the Broncos' women's basketball squad to a 64-18 record over a three-season span, she has also earned herself respect as an official.

She has twice officiated at the finals of the U.S. Women's Collegiate Tournament and she has refereed all five contests played by the People's Republic of China women's team in a United States tour in 1975.

"The pressure of refereeing in U.S. women's college games is much tougher than what I faced today," May said in reference to Friday's match which she and male partner Ivan Savov worked. "Those American crowds are really something."

She said there were considerable differences between the U.S. brand of basketball and international competition, which is much more physical.

"I let a lot more contact go in today's game than I would in a U.S. basketball game," May confided. "But I tried to protect the girl with the ball and discourage the elbowing."

May said the hardest place to detect an infraction is under the basket.

Buckner raps Dodgers

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Buckner rapped out two homers and a two singles and drove in five runs Friday against his former teammates to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Ivan DeJesus had three hits and drove in the other Chicago run and Steve Ontiveros added three hits to the 15-hit attack the Cubs launched against Tommy John, 14-5, whose string of 22 scoreless innings came to an end before he could retire a batter.

DeJesus led off the Cub first with a single and Jose Cardenal also singled before Buckner smashed his eighth homer of the season.

Buckner singled home a run in the second and led off the sixth with his second homer. DeJesus, also a former Dodger, singled home a run in the fifth following Ontiveros' double.

Mike Krukow, 8-10, was working on a one-hitter when Rick Monday, obtained from the Cubs for Buckner and DeJesus, hit his 12th homer of the season in the seventh.

The Dodgers also scored in the second on a walk, an error and the first of Dusty Baker's two doubles. Krukow allowed three hits in his seven innings and Dave Giusti finished up.

The Cubs knocked out John in the fifth inning when Ontiveros doubled and scored on a single by DeJesus. At that point, he had given up 13 hits, most in any game this season by the veteran left-hander, who had won eight straight decisions since a 5-2 loss to St. Louis June 12.

Scott featured

This week's Family Weekly will feature a special sports story by Ed Burg on Steve Scott of Upland.

In it, Scott reveals how he went from a frustrated baseball player at Upland to one of America's top track and field athletes.

Family Weekly will be distributed with the Sunday edition of the Progress Bulletin.

Two of John's five losses have been administered by the Cubs.

Still, the Cubs only managed five runs off John, stranding nine runners in the first five innings and also hitting into a pair of double plays.

After Buckner's homer in the first, Bobby Murcer and Ontiveros singled, but Manny Trillo hit into a double play. The Cubs wasted another single by Ontiveros and left two men on in the third, and had three hits but could not score in the fourth.

DeJesus singled opening the fourth, but Cardenal bounced into a double play. Buckner and Jerry Morales followed with singles, but Murcer struck out.

Monday's homer with one out in the seventh ended a string of 14 straight outs by Krukow. Baker followed with his second double of the game, but Krukow fanned pinch-hitter Lee Lacy, and Steve Yeager grounded out.

Ryan fails to get 18th

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Garvin broke a personal 10-game losing streak with relief help from Pete Vuckovich and Toronto prevented Nolan Ryan from becoming the major leagues' first 18-game winner Friday night by handing the California Angels a 3-1 defeat.

Winless in 13 appearances since June 5, Garvin went the first 61-3 innings to improve his record to 8-13. Ryan is now 17-11.

Ryan struck out 13 Blue Jays to extend his major league record to 101 games with 10 or more strikeouts. He now has 284 for the season. Ryan also walked nine in the game, his season high.

UCLA 'alumni' spark West win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Former UCLA teammates Richard Washington and Marques Johnson led a balanced scoring attack that helped the West to a 136-123 victory over the East in a benefit basketball game played before 10,686 fans at the Forum Friday night.

Washington, who played for Kansas City of the National Basketball Association last season, had 25 points and 16 rebounds while Johnson, the college player of the year at UCLA in 1976-77, had 23 points and eight rebounds.

Paul Westphal added 21 points for the West. Phil Smith and Cazzie Russell contributed 16 points each for the winners and Sven Nater had 11 points and 14 rebounds.

Rudy Hackett had 31 points and a game-high 17 rebounds for the East. George Gervin also scored 31 points, while Julius Erving had 24 points. Clifford Ray tallied 11 points and pulled down 16 rebounds.

All proceeds from the game will go to the Souville Foundation, which gives scholarships and provides summer camp tuition for underprivileged children.

Delayed bout goes tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Ruben Olivares and Bobby Chacon meet tonight in a 10-round super featherweight match that had — strangely for an indoor bout — earlier been postponed by rain.

The bout at the Forum between the two former title-holders was originally scheduled for last Wednesday. But promoter Don Fraser, hoping a surge of walk-up ticket sales would put the fight in the black, rescheduled the bout Wednesday morning as heavy rains continued to drench Southern California.

Neither fighter, each of whom is trying for a comeback, had a objections when the bout was postponed.

The meeting will be the third between the two, and Chacon, despite being knocked out by Olivares in their previous bouts, has been established as the favorite.

At 25, he is four years younger than his opponent, the former bantamweight and featherweight champion from Mexico City.

In their last meeting, Olivares stopped Chacon in two rounds to take his World Boxing Council featherweight crown. Earlier, Olivares had knocked out the Los Angeles fighter in nine rounds.

Both fighters pack power, as they have a total of 105 knockouts between them. Chacon, who said he doesn't expect this bout to go the distance, has a 26-3 record with 33 knockouts, and Olivares is 80-8-1 with 72 knockouts.

The winner has a good chance for a WBC super lightweight title bout against champion Alfredo Escalera.

Golfers eye title in different way

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf is searching for a spot in the World Series of Golf. Jim Weichers is fighting for his playing life.

And five others—Miller Barber, Leonard Thompson, Howard Twitty, Rod Curl and Charles Coody, all tied with Weiskopf and Weichers at seven-under-par 135—are seeking the $60,000 first prize in the rich Westchester Classic.

The seven-man tie for first place halfway through this $300,000 event represents the largest number sharing the lead in any tour event since nine players were locked for the first-round lead in the 1969 PGA National Championship.

In addition, there are three golfers only one shot off the lead and four others another shot behind, producing a group of 14 players within two shots of each other after 36 holes over the tight, hilly, little 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course.

Aside from Weiskopf, the game's more glamorous names aren't among them.

Lanny Wadkins and Gene Littler, who had to go to a playoff to decide the PGA title at Pebble Beach, Calif. last weekend, both failed to qualify for the final two rounds. Wadkins, the PGA champion, had a 77-152 and Littler was 73-150.

Jack Nicklaus just made the cutoff figure of 145 after a second-round 74. Johnny Miller had his best round of the season, a 66, and was at 139. He was tied with British Open and Masters champion Tom Watson, who said he played poorly although shooting a 68 and added, "I have no hope of winning playing the way I am right now."

Weiskopf, hampered by a triple-bogey seven on the eighth hole of Thursday's opening round, bounced back with a seven-under-par 64—the best round of the tournament—in Friday's second round.

The winner of the Kemper Open earlier in the year, Weiskopf said his principal goal "is trying to qualify for the World Series of Golf." He needs another victory to do it.

Of the other leaders, Thompson had a 66, Curl and Weichers 67s, Twitty and Coody 68s, Barber a 69.

None was more pleased than the veteran Weichers, who is considering leaving the tour and actually had his playing rights revoked earlier this year. They were restored, he said, after "a couple of nasty letters to (PGA Tour Commissioner Deane) Beman."

Weichers, part-owner of a wine importing and wholesale business in San Francisco, has not made expenses in the last two years and said he was playing so poorly he was considering leaving the tour. "I'll have to sit down and consider it at the end of the year. I'm playing so poorly, and I reaching an age I have to consider what I'm going to do with my life."

Weiskopf, Coody, Curl and Twitty all had a chance to unlock the biggest logjam of the 70s, but all failed to birdie the relatively easy, par-five 18th hole. Curl missed a seven-foot putt. The others had their second shots close to the green but chipped poorly.

That left them one stroke in front of Andy North, Soath African Bobby Cole and George Burns, tied at 136. Another shot behind at 137 were Andy Bean, Forrest Fezler, Bill Kratzert and Mac McLendon.

Colts turn mishaps into victory, 29-7

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts converted two first half fumble recoveries into touchdowns, one on a Bert Jones pass, and frustrated four Minnesota scoring chances to beat the Vikings 29-7 in a National Football League exhibition game Friday night.

Following a 28-yard Toni Linhart field goal midway through the first quarter, Baltimore scored on Lydell Mitchell's 12-yard touchdown run and a six-yard pass from Jones to Glenn Doughty. Both scores were set up by fumble recoveries by Ray Oldham and Derrel Luce.

Minnesota, which lost for the first time in three preseason outings, scored in the second quarter on a four-yard run by Sammy Johnson in the nationally televised game.

The Vikings missed a 44-yard field goal attempt by Fred Cox in a scoreless third quarter, and twice lost the ball in Baltimore territory. One drive stalled at the 25, and later Minnesota had to punt following a 17-yard sack of Fran Tarkenton from the 30.

The Colts, also 2-1, in exhibition play, scored on a fourth-quarter pass from quarterback Bill Troup to Freddie Scott, and then forced another Minnesota fumble at the Baltimore 31.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Quarterback Brian Sipe passed for two touchdowns to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 19-10 National Football League preseason victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night.

Sipe, playing the first three periods, connected on 13 of 20 passing attempts for 163 yards to help the Browns post their first preseason victory in three tries.

The Cardinals, now winless in three starts, moved into a 3-0 lead on a 35-yard field goal by Jim Bakken. That capped a 17-play drive that ate up much of the initial period.

The Browns then took the lead for good on a lightning-quick score as Sipe passed to Larry Poole for three yards, fired a 45-yard strike to Reggie Rucker and Poole barreled across from the 10 for the touchdown.

an infield out and scored on a single by Steve Staggs.

Ryan, who walked six Blue Jays in the first three innings, got out of a jam in the first by getting Doug Ault and Dave McKay on called strikes.

Etchebarren, Jerry Remy and Bobby Bonds all walked in the California third to fill the bases with one away. Jackson forced Bonds at second with Etchebarren scoring.

California missed a chance to tie the game in the fourth. Dave Chalk singled for the Angels' first hit and went to third on a single by Gil Flores. With two away and Etchebarren at bat, Chalk and Flores attempted a double steal.

Etchebarren swung away and Chalk was tagged out by catcher Rick Cerone.

Don Cockroft, who later missed a pair of extra point conversions, made it 7-0 with 2:47 left in the quarter.

On the third play of the second period, free safety Thom Darden intercepted a Jim Hart pass and returned it 19 yards to the St. Louis 34, setting up the Brown's second touchdown.

An eight yard pass to Rucker got Cleveland a first down at the 20, and after a two-yard plunge by Poole, Sipe connected with Rucker in the right corner of the end zone to make it 13-3.

The Cardinals, who have scored just two touchdowns in preseason play, cut the margin to 13-10 with a 68-yard drive near the end of the half. A 21-yard pass from Hart to Terry Metcalf started the drive, a pair of passes totalling 29 yards to Ike Harris, kept it going, and Hart's one-yard strike to Wayne Morris was good for the touchdown.

L.A. Fair racing to start in Sept.

Horsemen will be competing for a record amount of purse money at the Los Angeles County Fair when the 14-day meeting begins here Friday, Sept. 16.

From total purses of $1,056,788, there has been $928,199 allocated to Thoroughbred racing, $98,693 to Quarter Horse racing, and $29,896 to Appaloosa racing.

Thoroughbreds participating in the lucrative Pomona stakes program will vie for a total of $267,500 in added-money. All of the fair's 13 thoroughbred stakes purses have been increased from last year, including the $35,000-added Pomona Handicap on closing day, Oct. 1.

The $2,500-added Pomona Quarter Horse Futurity is expected to have a gross purse of $135,000.

Appaloosas will have an added-money opportunity in the $3,000-added Pomona Appaloosa Futurity.

Can USC retain 1976 momentum?

LOS ANGELES — At the end of last season USC might have been the best college football team in the country. Can the Trojans sustain that momentum in 1977?

"We have a chance to be very good again," says second year coach John Robinson. "But we're still a mass of individuals trying to become a team. Graduation took 14 key players."

"We also have the most difficult schedule USC has had to face in many years. However, we certainly haven't lost our optimism."

Robinson and his Trojans open two-a-day practices on Monday after greeting the media at 10 a.m. Saturday. Morning practices will be at 9:30, with afternoon workouts scheduled at 3. USC opens at Missouri on Sept. 10.

In Robinson's first season the Trojans were upset by Missouri in the opener, then rebounded to run off 11 straight victories and wind up No. 2 in both final polls.

In that 11-game winning streak, USC outscored its opponents, 361 to 93, made it to the Rose Bowl for the 8th time in 11 years and beat UCLA, Notre Dame and Michigan in succession down the stretch.

The second-ranked Trojans also finished the season third in the nation in total offense (432.5 yards a game) and third in scoring (33.8 points a game). And their defense shut off five opponents without a TD, blanking three.

Ten starters — six on the offense and four on defense — return from 1976, along with several potentially good players who saw a lot of action. There are 28 lettermen.

"Right now, our inexperience is definitely a question mark," says Robinson. "Some people go from being inexperienced players to veteran ones in about three weeks, but some take two years. How quickly we make that trip from relative inexperience to being a competent veteran team is a big key."

"Our ability to develop a sound kicking game is crucial, too. We'll have a new punter and new placekicker."

"And what is the intangible loss in losing a Ricky Bell, a Gary Jeter, and Marvin Powell, a Donnie Hickman, a Shelton Diggs? We've replaced them and the other seniors with quality people, we think, but certainly many of them performed much better as seniors than at any other point in their careers."

"Perhaps the people we have replacing them will be great performers as seniors, too, but many now are juniors and a few are sophomores."

If there is such a thing as one side of a team being carried early in a season, at USC it figures to be by the offense.

"The key to our team is the improvement of our defense," says Robinson. "We're going against some very good football teams with varied attacks. We play Missouri, Alabama and Notre Dame in our first seven games and all are potent offensively."

"Right now, however, our own offense has the potential to be outstanding."

The attack starts with senior quarterback Rob Hertel, who backed up Rose Bowl Player of the Game Vince Evans in 1976, but completed 65 per cent of his passes, eight for touchdowns.

The six offensive starters returning include senior All-American split end candidate Randy Simmin, who has caught passes in 24 straight games (32 for a 20.4 average and 5 TD's last year), and the man Robinson calls "as good a blocking tight end as there is in America," senior William Gay (13 catches, 11.3 average, 1 TD).

Other starters back are senior fullback Mosi Tatupu, who has a 5.9 career rushing average, junior tackle Otis Page, senior center Gary Bethel and junior Pat Howell and sophomore Brad Budde.

Then there's sophomore tailback Charles White, who ran for 858 yards and scored 11 touchdowns subbing for Ricky Bell. White had four 100-yard games, including 114 in the Rose Bowl, and also broke off scoring gallops of 79, 60, 35 and 34 yards.

Also figuring prominently in the backfield will be 1974 California JC Player of the Year Lynn Cain, a junior who will play both tailback and fullback — like Michigan All-American Rob Lytle did last year — and two other junior tailbacks, Dwight Ford (5.7 career average on 57 carries) and Rod Connors.

The new flanker is 1976 transfer Calvin Sweeney, a redshirt last fall, and he'll be joined at the position by Charles White's San Fernando High teammate, 9.4 sprinter Kevin Williams.

The four defensive starters returning include All-American safety Dennis Thurman, a senior who led the nation in interception return yardage (170) and was third in interceptions (8); senior left corner Ricky Odom, who had 5 interceptions; and a pair of senior All-American candidates, inside linebacker Clay Matthews and left tackle Walt Underwood.

Matthews, who calls defensive signals, was second on the team in tackles last year with 112, while Underwood had 11 for losses.

Other lettermen who loom as certain starters on defense right now are senior Mario Celotto and junior Garry Cobb at outside linebacks, senior Mike Carey at rover, junior Rich Midler at nose guard and senior Vinny Van Dyke at right tackle.

Chaffey High product Anthony Munoz (a 6-6, 280-pound sophomore) is listed as one of the tentative starters on the Trojan offensive line. Others vying for starting spots on that unit are seniors John Schuhmacher and Bruce Brooks.

Leading the contenders for place-kicking duties is Frank Jordan, Jordan, who red-shirted last year, kicked 20 field goals for UC Riverside in 1974-75.

STAR OF FILM AND FIELD — UCLA star halfback Theotis Brown spent his summer working for Hollywood movie producer Mike Frankovich, a former Bruin quarterback. Brown will move his act to UCLA for the opening of fall practice on Monday afternoon. UCLA's season opens on Sept. 12 at Houston.

Bruins will greet 100 candidates

LOS ANGELES — UCLA head coach Terry Donahue will welcome over 100 prospective football players when the Bruins begin fall practice Tuesday.

Donahue and his coaching staff will have about three weeks to prepare the Bruins for their Sept. 12 opener against Houston in the Astrodome.

On Monday, Donahue and his players will be available to members of the media during the annual picture day. The following morning the Bruins begin three days of non-contact conditioning drills, working twice a day. Contact work will begin on Friday.

This will be Donahue's second season as the Bruin head coach. Last year as rookie he led the Bruins to a 9-2-1 record and a berth in the Liberty Bowl. The Bruins open practice coming off back-to-back nine win seasons for the first time since 1954-55 and there are plenty of quality players to help the Bruins make it three-in-a-row.

Donahue will have 34 lettermen from last year at his disposal and two more from 1975. Nine returning starters — six on defense and three on offense — will form the nucleus of a team looking for its second Rose Bowl bid in three years.

Leading the defensive unit will be juniors Jerry Robinson and Manu Tuasosopo and senior Levi Armstrong. Robinson, an inside linebacker, became the first Bruin sophomore ever to earn consensus All-America honors last year while Tuasosopo, a defensive tackle, was All-Coast in 1976. Armstrong earned All-Coast second team and All-League first team honors.

Offensively, junior running back Theotis Brown figures to be the key. In 1976, Brown became the first Bruin ever to rush for over 1,000 yards as a sophomore and bigger things are expected of him this season. He looked better than ever during Spring Practice, especially in the area of open field running.

The Bruins have two two-year starters to play with Brown on the offensive platoon. Offensive tackle Gus Coppins is one of the best on the coast while tight end Don Pederson is a steady, consistent performer.

Other experienced performers who will aid the Bruin cause in 1977 include linebacksers Raymond Bell and Frank Stephens, nose guard Steven Tetric and running back James Owens. All but Owens were starters last season and the junior running back showed he is ready to step in and take over for departed Wendell Tyler.

Perhaps Donahue's biggest challenge of the three-week practice session will be deciding upon a quarterback. There are two candidates to replace All-American Jeff Dankworth — junior Steve Bukich and sophomore Rick Bashore. Bukich enters fall drills listed first at the position but the two figure to battle right up until opening day for starting honors.

Coach Donahue feels the Bruins' biggest problem will be inexperience. "As I look at our team, our primary weakness is lack of playing experience," he says. "We are without eight starters from our offensive team and five from our defensive team, therefore we will be playing with 13 new players. Along with inexperience, a lack of any great depth would appear to be our biggest problem."

As for the Bruin strengths, Donahue feels they include, "Our quickness on defense, the fact that we have a great running back in Theotis Brown and the fact that this team has the ability to practice well. Because of this we should improve steadily from week-to-week and become a better football team."

During two-a-day workouts the Bruin coaching staff will have split workouts in the morning. The team will practice as a unit in the afternoon. "We do this so we have the opportunity to coach each and every player," says Donahue, "and so we can evaluate our talent more efficiently, especially the incoming talent. It's hard to evaluate players when they work every sixth play." The morning sessions will begin at 8 and 10:20 a.m.

Commenting on the important quarterback position, Donahue says the Bruins have "two players who I would say will actively compete for the position (Bukich and Bashore). They are dead even at this time. We have a freshman, Michael Brant, but he will probably be in a backup role, at least early in the year."

Donahue will welcome 22 incoming players (21 freshmen) but he does not expect them to perform miracles. "I'm excited about the opening of fall practice and certainly one aspect of practice beginning is getting a chance to work with the freshmen. However, as I have said in the past, we have to adapt a wait-and-see attitude in this area and not put pressure on them or it could hurt their development."

The home fans will get their first look at Donahue's 1977 Bruins on Sept. 17 when the Kansas Jayhawks and their Wishbone offense move into the Coliseum. Game time is 7 p.m.

Del Mar Derby on tap Sunday

DEL MAR — The three-year-old champion of the 1977 Del Mar racing season will be crowned Sunday when the $50,000-added Del Mar Derby is renewed at a mile and one-eighth over the seaside track's infield grass course.

Seeking his third stakes triumph of the meeting in the Derby will be Howard B. Keck's Stone Point, a talented son of Tell conditioned by Charlie Whittingham. Stone Point opened his season by easily accounting for a division of the Oceanside Stakes and underscored that win with a more recent success in the La Jolla Mile. In the later race, Stone Point defeated Pay the Toll by one length in 1:35 and 4/5 for the distance.

Confronting Stone Point in the Derby will be Elmdorf's Text, who has been trying the best of his division throughout 1977. The chestnut son of Speak John, who will be making his first start of the sum-

UCLA cagers open slate against BYU

LOS ANGELES — Intersectional clashes with Michigan and Notre Dame highlight the 1977-78 UCLA basketball schedule as announced by athletic Director J.D. Morgan.

The schedule includes 14 games against Pacific-8 opponents and 12 against non-conference foes, including a home date with the Wolverines and a home-and-home series with the Fighting Irish. Four of the intersectional opponents — Michigan, Notre Dame, Arizona and Southern Illinois — participated in the 1977 NCAA playoffs.

The Bruins will also play two non-counting games.

On Monday, Nov. 14, the Bruins host Australia in Pauley Pavilion. On Sunday, Jan. 15, the Russian National Team will provide the opposition, again in Pauley.

Coach Gary Cunningham's first Bruin team opens the regular season against BYU, coached by former Bruin assistant Frank Arnold, on Nov. 26 in Pauley. The Bruins play 10 non-conference games before opening the Pac-8 season on Jan. 6 in Seattle against the University of Washington.

Following their first four conference games, the Bruins face the Russian National Team and Notre Dame before continuing the league season. UCLA will face Michigan on Mar. 5, the day after the Pac-8 finale with USC.

In addition to Michigan,

Notre Dame, Arizona and Southern Illinois, the Bruins' non-conference foes include Seattle and Santa Clara from the West Coast Athletic Conference, Colorado of the Big Eight, San Jose State and UC Santa Barbara of the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference, BYU of the WAC and New Mexico State of the Missouri Valley Conference.

UCLA will also play the usual home-and-home series with each of its seven Pacific-8 rivals.

Following is the complete 1977-78 UCLA basketball schedule:

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

The function of the lungs is to provide a place where oxygen in the air can reach the blood and circulate throughout the body. The air you breathe in usually enters through your nose, where it is warmed and much of the dust particles are screened out. The cleaned air then passes through the long windpipe in your throat and into your lungs. Inside the lungs are millions of tiny sacs of lung tissue. Each sac is like a tiny balloon surrounded by tiny blood vessels. The oxygen you breathe in passes through the thin walls of the air sacs and into the bloodstream where it is carried to all cells of the body. The oxygen helps burn the "fuel" you get from food to give your body the energy it needs. In exchange, the body cells release carbon dioxide, a waste product. The blood carries the carbon dioxide back to the lungs. When you exhale, you breathe out this carbon dioxide gas.

DALLAS (AP) — The siren's wail died, and ambulance attendants wheeled the body of a wounded man into Parkland Hospital's emergency room.

He had a massive head wound. The emergency team had seen blood and broken bodies before — the victims of chance, carelessness or hatred. But this man was the president of the United States, John F. Kennedy. And he was dying.

From a clinical point of view, Kennedy was just another murder victim and his body was part of the evidence needed to find his killer. That evidence was so critical the post-mortem examination was not done at the hospital in Dallas but at one of the nation's largest military facilities, Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington, D.C.

Medical authorities in Dallas contend that was the wrong decision. And they say it wouldn't have been made today, with one of the nation's best forensic medicine centers in Dallas.

The Dallas County Institute of Forensic Medicine has been developed since the Kennedy assassination in 1963. It has been run since 1969 by Dr. Charles S. Petty, whose office is about 200 yards from the emergency room where Kennedy died.

The institute has a sophisticated crime lab for the analysis of drugs, poisons and weapons as well as bodies.

"The people in Washington who did the autopsy had a dead body who had been worked on by surgeons in an attempt to save his life," Petty said in an interview. "The post-mortem should have been done in Dallas. The autopsy had to be correlated with what went on in Dallas. The whole investigation has to be coordinated in a system like we have here now."

For example, Petty said, basic information that surgeons performed a tracheotomy on Kennedy and obliterated a bullet hole was not relayed to Washington in the confusion.

Had the assassination occurred today and "the powers that be" insisted that the President be taken back to Washington, I would have at least insisted going along too, with at least one surgeon and all the X-rays and evidence we could take with us," Petty said.

Parkland Hospital's administrator, Jack Price, who also held that post in 1963, said then-medical examiner Earl Rose wanted to hold the President's body in Dallas, but was convinced to let it go because of the circumstances.

"Everything is neatly correlated for efficiency," said Petty of the forensic center, which has a staff of 70.

One of about 350 forensic pathologists in the country, Petty also is a teacher. He oversees forensic medicine education at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School at Parkland, and administrators forensic science instruction law enforcement agencies in the county.

A criminal investigation can be bungled at any point during the process, Petty said, so the education of everyone connected is part of his job.

"If a police officer sees a dead man slumped in a chair with a bullet hole in his head and a gun at his side, 98 times out of 100 it's a suicide. But what about the two times it's not. He's got to give us a chance to look at the evidence."

Petty said the institute spent 750 hours last year teaching law enforcement personnel the basics, such as not handling a gun at the scene of a shooting. "It's a big hangup when law enforcement officers don't know what to look for, and he can't assume that what looks obvious is fact," Petty said.

Tom Hudson, in charge of communications, identification and records for the Dallas Police Department, often works closely with Petty.

"The way we have it set up, with all the operations at one facility, is the forerunner of how law enforcement will be handled in the future."

"This facility is unique to my knowledge and is one of the greatest things that ever happened to support our handling of criminal cases."

No CB? Try one of his cards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the Hi Sign you can flip your way to conversation with the next car on the freeway. It may be a way to avoid boredom, arrange a date—or maybe get in trouble with the highway patrol.

The series of flipcard with printed messages are a poor man's CB radio or a way to avoid the embarrassment of a spoken rebuff while trying to get a date.

With the gadget you can talk to the next car on the freeway without uttering a single word or ask for a dance at a disco without really asking.

Hi Signs are a series of flip cards mounted on a plastic handle which look like paddles for a game of verbal ping pong. In fact, says creator Paul Steinbaum, the handles started as a real ping pong paddle before he began mass producing them.

The boyish, bearded 32-year-old creator of Hi Signs, flips the cards and explains how to talk with the 21 printed messages:

"If you're driving along and see someone you'd like to meet, start out with 'YOU'RE CUTE.' Then ask, 'ARE YOU AT-TACHED.' If she nods, 'yes,' then flip her this card—'BYE.'"

"But if she seems interested, you can hit her with 'PULL OVER' or go all the way with 'I LOVE YOU.'"

Law enforcement officers are casting a wary eye on the signs, and in California at least, there's no clearcut policy. Highway Patrol Spokesman Michael Moses says, "I'm sure that the first incident that we have on this, we're going to end up with an attorney general's opinion...I could see a problem if they weren't used properly. They could be a distraction."

In Texas, a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety, says he can see nothing particularly hazardous in using the signs.

After all say users, folks spend a lot of time flipping switches and dials on their CBs. What's so different about sticking up a sign?

Steinbaum notes that some of the messages are safety related, like "LET ME PASS" printed backward to be visible in rear view mirrors and "HELP." And one card containing promotional material, Steinbaum notes smiling, says "drive carefully."

Steinbaum estimates that he's sold 60,000 of the gadgets, starting last November with simple cards he made himself to the manufactured version that's being cranked out now.

PAUL STEINBAUM AND INVENTION

The idea is simple, and other folks around the country are marketing similar devices.

Steinbaum says he's running his business on a cottage scale. His office is still his small West Los Angeles apartment. This month he hired a secretary to help him process invoices and wholesalers now handle the distribution Steinbaum handled from the rear of his sports car.

Steinbaum slid into his merchandising career while working as a second assistant director on Hollywood films "and watching my friends pass me by." The first Hi Sign, he says, came last year while he was driving down the freeway yearning to meet an attractive woman in a nearby car. He was unsuccessful.

Student loan loss is alarmingly high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nine-year cost to taxpayers for defaults on federally guaranteed student loans is slightly over $400 million, and the figure is rising every year, the General Accounting Office estimates.

The fiscal watchdog agency says one of every six persons who gets a loan is refusing to pay back the money.

Between 1968 and 1976, the government guaranteed four million student loans worth $4.5 billion. It reimbursed banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions $287 million for more than $280,000 recipients who defaulted.

Today In History
By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Aug. 20, the 232nd day of 1977. There are 133 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1791, a Danish navigator, Vitus Bering, discovered Alaska.

On this date:

In 1776, George Washington eluded the British in Brooklyn, N.Y., and moved his army across the East River to Manhattan in dense fog.

In 1833, the 23rd American President, Benjamin Harrison, was born in North Bend, Ohio.

In 1914, during World War I, German forces occupied Brussels, Belgium.

In 1941, in World War II, the Soviets blew up their Dnieper Dam as German troops swept across the Ukraine.

In 1955, hundreds were killed in anti-French riots in Morocco and Algeria.

In 1961, the East Germans were busy building a wall along most the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin.

Ten years ago: Sixty-eight people were arrested in New Haven, Conn., in a second night of disorders by blacks and Puerto Ricans. By the next night, 343 arrests had been made.

Five years ago: North Vietnam scored a major victory in fighting in South Vietnam, occupying the Que Son Valley and laying bare to attack a 20-mile stretch of Highway 1 from Da Nang southward.

One year ago: Forty-six people were murdered by extremists in Argentina.

Today's birthday: Former baseball manager Al Lopez is 69 years old.

Thought for today: When a thing is funny, search it for a hidden truth — George Bernard Shaw, British playwright, 1856-1950.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Sunday, Aug. 21, 1977
Your Birthday, Aug. 21, 1977

Keep your eyes open this coming year for ways you can beautify or change your place of residence. It can be done in a way that will cost you no more than you're presently spending.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Avoid applying pressure in order to bring others to terms today. Rather than speeding up things, you'll only cause greater delay. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have a tendency today not to trust your instincts, but to do things to please others. This will only serve to inhibit your own natural abilities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lend nothing to one who already borrowed things you prize and failed to return them. You'll only add to this person's bulging inventory.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let vanity or pride overshadow your nobler qualities today. There's no shame in second place if you really have done your best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Stay away from companions with domineering personalities today. They may back you into a corner. You're in no mood to tolerate that.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you try to inject a serious note into a light gathering today, you'll meet with dire results. Your companions won't tolerate it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try not to let indecisive companions throw a monkey wrench into your plans today. Proceed on your own if they can't give you a quick "Yes" or "No."

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Normally you're the first to praise those undertaking a difficult task. Today, what you have to say may be in a discouraging vein.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you'd be unwise to gamble, even on yourself. It would be sheer folly to stake anything of importance on the performance of anyone else.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your dealings today, make sure you accurately define the word "concession." To gain something of value, you should give up something comparable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll probably be further ahead today by buying the finished product rather than attempt to do it yourself. The "simple" directions often aren't.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a day when you'll realize the greatest pleasure from the most inexpensive diversions. High-priced pastimes just aren't for you.

Elvis sound-alike in demand

Trying to set up tribute show

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Bill Haney, who makes $50,000 a year because he looks a little, and sounds a lot, like his idol, Elvis Presley, is suddenly in even greater demand.

"My telephone has been ringing off the wall since Tuesday," said Haney from a Hot Springs, Ark., club where he tried unsuccessfully to cancel his show after hearing of Presley's death.

"Clubs, fairs, concerts ... the Midwest fan clubs trying to set up a final salute to Elvis in October ... I can't take care of it all," said the 35-year-old impersonator, dubbed "almost Elvis Himself."

Haney, son of a Blytheville, Ark., policeman, poached on Presley's territory so successfully the past three years that he built a following of his own.

Despite his grief, he admits Presley's death will widen his appeal.

"Without my trying to capitalize on it, it's just going to automatically happen. He's got millions of fans. He filled up every auditorium in every city he went to. All these people love Elvis and they have no live Elvis to worship anymore. All they have is his memory."

A younger, slimmer version of Presley, Haney begins his act by saying he is performing a tribute to Elvis.

"In no way do I intend to try to be Elvis. There can be no other Elvis. This is strictly a tribute," he said.

Haney said his act is even more important now.

"The only way his fans can remember his legend is to be able to see somebody do his material in good taste, do it well and do it justice. I hope I can do it well enough so that people will come out and remember Elvis through me."

Dressed in $800 jumpsuits made by Presley's designer, Haney recreates on stage husky Presley classics like "Teddy Bear," "Don't Be Cruel" and "Love Me Tender." He twirls the microphone, shakes his legs and hips and flirts with the women.

In 1975 Haney's show attracted Presley's attention.

Through a mutual friend Haney was invited to Presley's Graceland Mansion at 3 a.m.

He said Presley came down to meet him dressed in a big multicolored robe and "rings, rings everywhere ... diamonds, you know."

"Then he said, 'Come here, man, I want to show you my cars.' He had just bought some Mark IVs to give away and they were sitting in front of the house."

The two admired the cars and then went inside to talk "strictly loose conversation, sitting around laughing at jokes."

"I was overwhelmed by the whole thing. I wasn't speechless, but all the time I was sitting there thinking about all these people that would just love to see him. I felt really privileged," Haney said.

Mary Ford hospitalized

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Singer Mary Ford, who paired with her guitar playing husband Les Paul for such 1950s folk hits as "Vaya Con Dios" and "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," was in critical condition in a hospital today with a neurological disorder.

Miss Ford, who is in her middle 50s, had been reported in serious condition Thursday at Arcadia Methodist Hospital, but a hospital spokeswoman announced today that her condition had worsened.

She is being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit in this Los Angeles suburb.

Miss Ford and Paul, whose hits also included "Mockingbird Hill" and "How High the Moon," were divorced in 1964.

THE IMPERSONATOR — Bill Haney admits he stands to earn a lot more money now because he looks and sounds like Elvis Presley.

These burglars were having a blast, until...

OSLO, Norway (AP) — They should have known it was going too well.

When three burglars broke into the office of the Ryfoss concrete company's office in Vang last weekend, they found the company safe right away.

They put together a small dynamite charge to blow it open, lit the fuse and confidently rushed into the next room.

The explosion which followed did not just open the vault, it brought down the walls of the factory. As it turned out, the safe was loaded with dynamite rather than cash.

According to the Oslo daily newspaper Verdens Gang, one burglar was severely injured and was brought to a hospital by his comrades. A second was arrested soon after for driving while intoxicated.

A DIFFERENT TUNE — Rita Jenrette, relaxes at her home in Washington as she tells of her plans to pursue an interest in music as a diversion from the routine of a congressman's wife.

Congressman's wife

Musical career: a diversion from politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rita Jenrette sat curled up on a sofa, her guitar in hand, singing love songs she had composed for her husband of one year, the handsome congressman from North Myrtle Beach, S.C.

In a time when many political wives are struggling for an identity of their own, Mrs. Jenrette is no exception. At 27, she is cutting a record album under her maiden name of Rita Carpenter.

With a working title of "One More Time," the album will include several songs that Mrs. Jenrette composed while she was in Washington and her husband was campaigning back home in South Carolina's 6th Congressional District.

In an interview in the couple's Capitol Hill townhouse, Mrs. Jenrette, a native of Austin, Tex., said she decided to pursue an interest in music as a diversion from the routine of receptions, teas and chicken dinners familiar to most political wives.

"You get lost in the Washington facade," she said. "I go to my husband's receptions until 1 a.m. almost every morning... People don't realize how unglamorous this life is. People from the district come up to Washington once a year for a convention, and they expect John and his wife to be there."

"I'm telling you, it's not glamorous. One cocktail party is just like another."

Mrs. Jenrette, dressed in blue jeans and a vibrant turquoise blouse that highlighted her platinum blonde hair, sat in the couple's small upstairs den where at 5 a.m. every day, she begins practicing voice exercises. "John wakes up to this every morning," she said, letting her voice take off like a runaway roller coaster.

Mrs. Jenrette picked up the guitar she plays by ear and then, in rich, low tones, began to sing one of her songs.

"Baby, do you love me?"
"Baby, do you miss me?"
"Hold me in your warm arms again..."
"Tonight you're in South Carolina,"
"I'm here all alone,"
"Wonderin' if you love me,"
"And when you're coming home."

Rita Carpenter met Jenrette two years ago when she was working as a researcher for the Republican National Committee. Jenrette, a 41-year-old second-term congressman, had recently divorced his wife of 14 years.

Mrs. Jenrette is quick to concede she has no professional singing experience. She was "discovered," she said, after appearing on a New York local television show with her husband. An agent heard her sing and persuaded her to do a record. Now his company is working to promote her public image.

"They're blunt," she said. "They told me one cheek bone is higher than the other. John never told me that. They want my hair darker because they say it will be more natural."

Mrs. Jenrette said she has had "nibbles" from several recording companies but no contract. "I may fail," she said. "But I'm not going to wake up when I'm 40 and say I didn't try."

Garbo not happy she 'vanted to be alone'

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Greta Garbo, who withdrew from public life 30 years ago, now feels she has lived a lonely, wasted life and "it's too late to change it," a West German magazine reports.

In what it claims is the 72-year-old Swedish movie queen's first interview since leaving the public scene, Bunte Illustrierte magazine quoted her as saying, "I have messed up my life. And it's too late to change it."

The magazine article said she spoke to a reporter who met her at a mutual friend's apartment in Klosters, a town in Switzerland's Graubunden area.

She lives two summer months every year in a small furnished apartment in Klosters, where she reads, sleeps and waits — "I really don't know for what," Miss Garbo was quoted as saying.

The article described her as going for long walks even in rainy weather, her graying hair gathered in the nape of her neck by a rubber band, hatless and with her face devoid of cosmetics except a trace of lipstick.

"These walks are just an escape. When I go walking alone, I think back over my life and the past. I am not happy with the way I made my life," she told the magazine.

She likes going to theater and opera in New York, where she lives most of the year.

"But what use is that to me? I might just as well live on a deserted island," she was quoted as saying.

"I'm restless everywhere and unable to settle down. I think I always have been... If only I knew where to go."

Groucho: his life and antics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Groucho Marx played the antic clown to the hilt, first as star of a series of insane, inspired stages plays and film comedies with his brothers, then as quizmaster in the successful radio and television show, "You Bet Your Life."

The bushy-browed, mustachioed comic and his brothers — Harpo, Chico, Gummo and Zeppo — developed a style of wise-cracking, zany comedy which delighted vaudeville and movie audiences for more than 50 years.

Groucho went on to star as quizmaster on his own radio and television series after his brothers either retired or went into other businesses.

A seamy courtroom battle over his conservatorship put Groucho back in the news in recent months, at a time when he was in and out of the hospital for treatment of his various ailments. Erin Fleming, a pretty former actress who attached herself to Groucho in 1970 and was his constant companion, battled Groucho's son, Arthur, over the care of the aged comedian.

One of his favorite characters was the lecherous Professor Hackenbush, the wise-cracker with raised eyebrows, false mustache and a stooped walk like a tiger stalking a water buffalo.

In later years, Groucho appeared without makeup on television, but he couldn't discard the leer. He was still recognizable.

Groucho was an insult comic. Once, at the fabled Romanoff's restaurant, a waiter sobbed when Groucho gave him a kind word.

"It's the first time," said the waiter, "that Mr. Marx didn't insult me."

Another time, the Brown Derby asked him to autograph a caricature to be hung on the restaurant's wall.

He autographed it this way:

"To Al Levy's Tavern (a competitor) — the best restaurant on Vine Street. Groucho."

The caricature was never hung.

Later, they asked him again. Groucho agreed only if no censorship was imposed. The autograph: "To the Hollywood Brown Derby — the best restaurant on Vine Street, only because Al Levy's has gone out of business."

The Marx Brothers' humor flowered in the Roaring '20s and became a fad of the era, along with the Charleston and raccoon coats. Their fortunes soared in the 1930s and '40s but declined in the postwar '50s.

Groucho, real name Julius, was born Oct. 2, 1890, in New York City, son of Jewish immigrants. His father, Sam, was an East Side tailor who lived to 101. He came from Alsace-Lorraine. His mother, Minnie, was born in Germany.

Minnie Marx was the daughter of a wandering magician and sister of Al Shean of the famed Gallagher and Shean vaudeville team.

At age 10, Groucho performed briefly with a Gus Edwards' kid troupe. He later joined a vaudeville group, the LeRoy Trio, which impersonated girl singers.

In 1910, Mamma organized the Three Nightingales, which included Groucho, a tenor and a girl. When Harpo joined them, they became the Four Nightingales. "The Four Vultures would have been more like it," Groucho said later.

Minnie and the boss' aunt Hannah joined up and they became the Six Mascots. After countless whistlstops, tanktown theaters and performances in the dingiest of circuits, the act evolved into the Four Marx Brothers, Chico, Harpo, Gummo (Milton) and Groucho.

The brothers never considered themselves a comedy act until one day in Nacogdoches, Tex., when a runaway mule started a minor riot outside the theater and lured most of the audience away.

The infuriated brothers began kidding their act and lured the audience back inside with their antics.

Their comedy act was born

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

Contrary to popular opinion today, it wasn't only oranges which were responsible for the financial well being of the thriving young community of Pomona in the Eighteen Eighties. Let's never forget the contribution also made to this city's early day prosperity by apricots, peaches, nectarines, blackberries and figs.

According to The Pomona Daily Progress, in July, 1888, over 160 men, women, girls and boys were employed by the Pomona Cannery which was then operating daily and far on into the night. Wagons loaded with apricots were brought there from all parts of this area — from Azusa, Glendora, Lordsburg, Ontario and Claremont — and they stood in line about the cannery every day until they could be unloaded and the fruit weighed. Fully an acre of ground about the cannery building was covered with trays which were filled with the drying fruit. On the roof of the cannery a score of boys were busily engaged in arranging the cut fruit on trays so that it might be best dried in the sun.

"The work of preserving the fruit will begin in about two weeks," The Daily Progress reported. "This work will be largely done in the basement of the Cannery. This week two very large vats capable of preserving 10,050 cans of fruit daily are being placed there and a boiler of unusually large size has been set up outside the building. The cooking and preparing of the fruit for canning and preserving is to be done in the vats by steam from the boiler. Thus far this season $7,240 has been paid for apricots and much more of the fruit is being brought to the cannery daily."

But did all that activity end with the close of the apricot season? Definitely not! In those days the Pomona Cannery was operating on a well diversified program. Next came the preserving of peaches and nectarines, and following that the blackberry crop and the crystalizing of figs. — No wonder this city was named Pomona after the Goddess of Fruit.

chess

Kenneth Rogoff, age 24, is a chess master of phenomenal talent. Playing rarely since high school, he is, nevertheless, ranked 8th in the United States.

Last summer, competing with the best players in the world in the Biel (Switzerland) Interzonal, he managed a score of 4 wins, 5 losses and ten draws. Not bad if you consider that he drew games with Bent Larsen and ex-world champions Tigran Petrosian and Michael Tal.

A measure of this future grandmaster's mettle was the draw with Tal. In that contest the usual solid-styled Rogoff ventured the very risky Nadjorf variation of the sicilian defense, just to see if he could match the greatest attacking player of modern chess on his own ground.

Ken is currently a graduate student of economics at MIT. But he finds time for occasional exhibitions as well as tournament play. He is a prodigy of blindfold chess in which he has taken on as many as 25 opponents simultaneously. He also excels in his knowledge of chess literature: "I'd say I have at least 30,000 to 40,000 games in active memory — that is, I could reconstruct the essential moves and strategies involved — and this helps me a lot.

CHARACTERISTIC ROGOFF

Characteristic of Rogoff's play is the game below. In the diagrammed position, Rogoff played 8... BxNch! to wreck white's queenside pawns. He then expertly maneuvered to win one of them. Later, when he had built up a commanding position, his discouraged opponent prematurely resigned.

Stamps in the news

To honor the Caribbean Boy Scout Jamboree held in Jamaica this year, Antigua has issued a set of seven new stamps showing Antigua Scouts participating in some of their activities. The ½-cent depicts Scouts putting up a tent and starting a fire for cooking. The 1-cent features scouts hiking. The 2-cents illustrates rock climbing. The 10-cents pictures Scouts cutting logs. The 30-cents displays map and compass reading. The 50-cents shows Scouts administering first aid. The highest value, $2, has a scene of Scouts rafting in Jamaica.

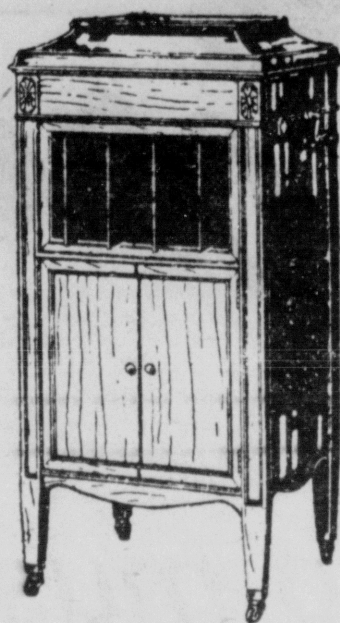

This year has been declared "World Rheumatism Year" in an effort to gain international support from people in all lands to aid those suffering from this ailment. Lesotho

Antique-wise

Old phonograph is still popular

By Dorothy Hammond
QUESTION: In the back of an old building, I found this old grafanola, type 2. It is in super condition. Also with it were two records made of cardboard and with the recording only on one side. The names of the songs are "Go Home & Tell Your Mother" by Don Voorhee's Orchestra, and "Sing You Sinners" by the Harlem Hot Chocolates. Could you tell me if these items would be considered a collector's item today? — J.S.

ANSWER: Yes, these early phonographs — introduced in an era when electronic "miracles" were virtually unknown, are as popular today as they were during the early years of the present century.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the value of a beautiful old coil silver ladle made by J.S. Porter, Utica, N.Y. Have you any information on this silversmith? — Mrs. W.W.

ANSWER: Joseph S. Porter (1783-1862) produced fine examples of coil silver from about 1805 to the mid-1800s. Ladies bearing his touchmark sell for about $125.

QUESTION: The enclosed mark is on a piece of pottery I purchased over the weekend at a flea market. Can you identify? — G.W.

ANSWER: The distinct Orb design on your piece of pottery indicates that it was made by Roycrofters of East Aurora, New York. The firm was founded by Elbert Hubbard in 1895, and until his death in 1915 (He died a passenger on the Lusitania), he directed the talents of many artists and craftsmen in producing books, furniture and crafts of exceptional quality — all of which are very collectible today.

QUESTION: How valuable is a clear glass fruit jar (quart), marked "Flaccus Bros." with an embossed head of a steer in an oval? The four that we have are all perfect, and complete with the covers. — Mrs. H.L.

ANSWER: These sought after food containers are presently selling for about $90 each.

QUESTION: I have a bow-back Windsor side chair exactly like the one illustrated on the enclosure, made by Wallace Nutting. My chair is signed and in excellent shape. I am 77 years old and have sold many of Wallace Nutting's chairs when in business during the 1920 and 30s. Their retail price during the 1930s was $38. How valuable are these chairs today? I would like very much to sell the one that I own. — R.M.C.

ANSWER: This particular style is presently selling for about $225.

QUESTION: To our surprise, a relative recently gave us my grandfathers high chair and, we would appreciate knowing how valuable it might be. The chair has had wonderful care over the years. It has a neat little pressed back, the seat is caned and the wood is oak. The chair converts into a stroller, and there is a small metal wheel attached to each leg. Stamped into the wood is the following information "Pat. Nov. 22, 1904." — Mrs. E.N.

ANSWER: You have described a child's carriage chair, popular during the early years of the present century. Today, these are selling in the $150-$195 price range, depending upon condition.

'Skid Road' troll may be a cop

Police decoys fight Seattle street crime

SEATTLE (AP) — In this town, the Skid Road troll may be a cop.

Richard LeMoine sits crumpled on a park bench, wearing tattered clothes and bandages, a set of crutches beside him.

A youth weighing 200 pounds approaches with a friend and stands over LeMoine.

"But why are you going to stab him," the friend asks.

"I don't know," says the big one with the knife.

Instead of stabbing him the youth reaches into LeMoine's jacket and pulls out some bills. He walks off.

Le Moine jumps up, yells "Police!" and assists a nearby plainclothesman in making the arrest.

LeMoine and 13 other Seattle police officers make up the Crime Specific Section, a volunteer unit that often prowls the streets in disguise, hoping to trap the unwary criminal.

The program, which began about 2½ years ago, is modeled after a similar operation in New York City.

The officers take turns in assuming their disguises as drunks, burns, handicapped persons, and — rarely — women, said Sgt. James Hill, a member of the decoy force.

"It's kind of hard to try and turn a 6-foot man into a frail, little old lady, but now we have a couple of smaller men in the unit," Hill said. "But the officers aren't crazy about the idea."

There are no women in the unit, he added, although other police units do use women officers in disguise.

Hill said it was hard to judge the effectiveness of the project, since police estimated only one out of eight assaults and robberies was reported.

"Many times we might make an arrest, but because the victim was a transient or under the influence of alcohol, he might never show up in court.

"But since we started the decoy program, we have had a conviction rate of almost 100 per cent," he said. The unit averages about five arrests a week.

The officers do not dress up every night. Hill said the unit usually concentrates its efforts during the first 10 days of the month.

"That's when the pension, welfare and social security checks come out and people have some money."

Hill said the unit purchases the clothing used in disguises at Goodwill and other second-hand stores. They buy makeup, false wigs and beards, patches and artificial scabs at theatrical supply stores.

"We buy the material ourselves and make the costumes to fit the individual officers," he said. "At first, it took a long time to make up a decoy, but now we have it down to about 30 minutes."

"Our materials are so low in cost we take the money out of petty cash," he said. "I figure our total expenses, outside of salaries, run about $60 a year."

Hill said the officers do not receive any theatrical training, but "probably most of us have had high school or drama classes."

"We all volunteered to join the unit. I guess it attracts people because we do so many things and are so flexible."

Powered by wind, sun

French study new generator

LA TURBIE, France (AP) — A simple axiom drummed into millions of high school heads in geography class runs: "When the sun goes down, the wind comes up."

"I can't imagine why nobody put it into practice before," said French engineer Roger Behe, looking at panels of solar cells and a windmill set on the edge of a cliff nearly 2,000 precipitous feet above Monte Carlo. "It was so obvious."

France's state-owned telecommunications authority is testing here, with apparent success, the world's first sun-and-wind-powered generating station, producing power ideal for communications relay stations, which often must be in highly isolated locations.

"The prototype cost about 600,000 francs ($120,000)," Behe said. "We believe that in production, an Aerosolec station will cost about 350,000 francs ($70,000)."

Installed in a one-shot operation, it eliminates the cost of major access roads, power lines or regular resupply of increasingly costly and scarce fuel. Two independent battery systems ensure absolutely reliable power supply, if the sun or wind systems break down, or in the unlikely event of neither sun nor wind for 20 days.

The unit is designed to be serviced only once a year, with automatic signals going to a control station if there is any system failure.

The electronic gear and batteries are housed in a prefabricated box that is little more than a cube 10 feet to a side. In special conditions such as deserts, the whole unit can be buried in a tank, with only the solar panels and windmill above ground.

The prototype unit supplies a constant 200 watts at 48 volts 24 hours a day, though many combinations of available power are foreseen.

"We had a number of minor electronic problems in starting up," Behe said, "but the unit has been running six to seven months with no problems at all from the solar cells or windmill."

A decision on production is expected early next year, after the one-year test is over. But Behe already sees no technical reason to prevent the system going commercial.

Jubilee's babies endure crowded arrival

Kingston, Jamaica (AP) — The Victoria Jubilee Hospital in West Kingston is a modest building only three stories tall, but every year 13,000 babies are born there. Only three hospitals in the world are said to deliver more — in India, Malaysia, and Hong Kong.

Photographs and text
by Kathy Willens

At Victoria Jubilee, on wards that must accommodate many more patients than they were designed to hold, a woman can have her baby delivered for roughly $7.50. Barring complications, she and her child are on their way home in 24 hours.

That's not economy, it's just a fact of life in a hospital where babies are born at the rate of 250 a week. For the nurse-midwives, it's an assembly line. The flood of babies is delivered by a medical staff of 20.

A woman sometimes must endure labor on her feet because the seven beds in the upper labor ward are occupied. She may have a chance to share her bed "top and tail", or head and foot, with another woman.

Dr. Keith Tang, the senior medical officer at the hospital, says things have improved. The birth volume at the hospital was 16,000 a decade ago and it was not uncommon mon to have four women in one single bed. "Up to 10 years ago, this place was a dump."

It's still far from a medical palace, with ceiling fans, dank hallways and a grassy courtyard of begging alley-cats, but the medical staff is dedicated and the huge load has professional advantages — "There's no way a doctor in private practice can equal our skills," Dr. Tang says.

The bulk of Jubilee's patients flows in from the mountain villages, the corrugated tin houses of shantytown, and the slums of West Kingston.

Birth control efforts, encouraged by the government, have made barely a dent in the birth rate. Childbearing is a way of life to many Jamaican women. "If a woman is with child," says one midwife, "she can be certain her man won't throw her out the door."

A PENSIVE PRESIDENT TEDDY ROOSEVELT

UC Riverside given huge stereograph photo library

Are you old enough to remember when the stereoscope was an important device for entertainment in a million American parlors and withdrawing rooms, the television of the gaslight era?

Nostalgia for the funny little slide-viewers and their cardboard-backed double photographs was evoked with the recent announcement that a Davenport, Iowa, family has presented a collection of nearly 140,000 stereographic cards and their glass stereo negatives to the Museum of Photography of UC Riverside.

The Keystone-Mast Collection, chronicling more than 100 years of American and world history, was presented to the university by Gifford, Terril, Eric, Sarah and Roderic Mast. Believed to be the largest collection of its kind in the world, it is valued at $1.2 million. It was developed by the Keystone View Co. of Meadville, Pa., one of the major stereograph manufacturers.

The slides depict life and events from 1850 to 1950, including thousands of never-before-published pictures. Among the photos are inventors like the Wright Brothers and Thomas Edison, literary figures like Mark Twain and Carl Sandburg, political leaders such as President Theodore Roosevelt, royalty, scenic views, disasters and celebrations, cities and shrines, fine arts and fashions, and scenes from the Civil War, Spanish-American War and the Russian Revolution.

UCR Chancellor Ivan Hinderaker said, "The addition of these materials will greatly enhance the instructional and research capabilities of our program in photography and in many other academic areas. They represent a priceless contribution far beyond UCR, for the preservation of this aspect of history for educational purposes and for the general public."

The stereoscope reproduces the mechanics of binocular vision. A dual-lens camera records images from two slightly different perspectives — like the left and right eye — and a double-image negative results. When the photos are inserted into the viewer, the observer gets a three-dimensional effect. The stereographic principle is employed today in aerial photography and astronomy.

Stereographs were perfected in England in the early 1800s, and the process found its way to the United States in the 1850s. Keystone began producing cards and viewers in 1892 and by 1920 controlled most of the market. The Mast family obtained the huge collection in the early 1900s. (It weighs more than 30 tons).

Highlights of the Keystone-Mast Collection are photos of the Wright Brothers' plane in flight, the Temple of Ramses III, the battleship USS Maine after it was sunk, and a stark scene of animal bones on the field of battle after Custer's last stand. There is also a series on the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

"The collection is a kind of literature that has remained virgin territory for years," said Edward Beardsley, professor of studio art. "It will provide substance for future Ph.D. theses and for a whole retinue of people engaged in research. It's a wide, unknown, untapped resource."

1925 HOLLYWOOD BOWL EASTER SERVICES

SPCA chief sees job as a very human one

NEW YORK AAP) — The baby possum climbing up the back of Duncan Wright's chair and onto his shoulder was only mildly distracting, at least compared to the mynah bird screeching obscenities downstairs.

In this concrete jungle, Duncan Wright is the head of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Duncan, who contributed to the delinquency of that mynah?

"Somebody who thought teaching it filth was cute. It wasn't. It's another form of abuse. That bird can never have a home. It would get bounced from place to place as the novelty wears off. That's why it was brought here. I'll just keep it here."

And the possum. Will it find a home?

"No. A lot of people would want to make a pet of her but she's a wild animal. Her mother was killed right here in midtown Manhattan, can you imagine? There were 10 in the litter. Our problem is to see that we don't domesticate them. When they are old enough I'll take them south, probably Virginia, and turn them loose in the woods."

The irony of an urban possum, or even a trashy-mouth mynah, does not escape Duncan Wright. He is a man of rare wit himself, but of rare sensitivity, too, so the sadness doesn't escape him either.

Take Harvey. Harvey was brought to him because Harvey was mean. Harvey bit people. Harvey is a rabbit.

Duncan Wright, with a chuckle, designated Harvey as his personal Attack Rabbit and uses the beast to help raise money for the ASPCA. (At a fund raiser the other night at Madison Square Garden, Harvey bit three people, including basketball star Willis Reed.) But where others see only the humor, Duncan Wright sees reason for distress.

"Rabbits aren't born to bite. Somebody teased that rabbit and made him the way he is. The problem is not with the rabbit but with the person who would do that. The real problem is social."

That gets close to what motivates Duncan Wright, which is not just animals but all creatures great and small, especially people.

As a boy growing up in California, Duncan Wright never owned a pet. He graduated from Loyola University of Los Angeles as a physicist and worked at that profession for 20 years. At Loyola, though, he got something more than a degree.

"The Jesuits gave me two things. One was a sense of commitment to fundamental morality, the other a sensitivity to the obligation to commit myself to something. While I like animals, my commitment is to humanity in all its forms."

So Duncan Wright gave up physics seven years ago and last year moved to New York to head its ASPCA. Is that his idea of serving humanity?

"The ASPCA is criticized, I know. Some say all that time and effort would be better spent preventing cruelty to children, to people, rather than animals. You can't separate humanitarianism. It's all of a piece."

"A society that encourages abuse of animals, as ours does, will never solve its human problems. Turn your head when a kid throws an animal off the roof of a building, just for fun, and you can damn well bet that when he's 16 or 17 he'll be mugging people in the subway."

Duncan Wright's passion is understandable, but "encourages" does seem too strong a word.

"Not in the least. We kill 14 million dogs and cats a year because there's nothing else to do with them. Just bring them to the shelter, let somebody else do it for you, absolve yourself of the responsibility."

"Let the cat have kittens. Let the children see the miracle of life. I say, let them also learn about death."

"Parents get a dog for the kids to take to the beach on vacation, then leave it there when they come home. It happens all the time. It's the live-toy syndrome. Take a look at this."

He tossed a plastic ball the size of a cantaloupe into the air and caught it.

"You unscrew the top, like this, put a kitten inside, or a gerbil. Put the ball on the floor. Watch the frantic animal make it roll. If it doesn't roll, kick it. Amusing, no? Every child should have one."

Duncan Wright's voice lowered.

"It seems like a small thing. But a society unwilling to confront this will be unwilling to confront other social problems. We all want to uplift mankind, but without uplifting all creatures, how can we?"

It's hard to argue such a point with Duncan Wright. Also, unsafe. He might sic Harvey on you.

Grover Cleveland is ranked, according to a ruling by the State Department, as both the 22nd and 24th President of the United States. He is the only Chief Executive to have served two non-consecutive terms. First elected in 1884, he was defeated for reelection in 1888 by Benjamin Harrison, although he led in the popular vote. He ran against Harrison again in 1892 and won.

Pops concert at Redlands

The Redlands Bowl Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Harry Farberman, will present a pops concert in the Bowl at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

Soloist will be Jean-David Coen, a senior at the Juilliard School of Music, a student of Sascha Gorodnitski. He will play Concerto No. 1 by Tchaikovsky.

Coen started piano at age 5, and at 13 he went to Paris where he was accepted at the National Conservatoire de Musique and became a pupil of Jeanne-Marie Darre. He was able to complete three years of study in one, graduating with a Premiere Medaille.

He returned to Los Angeles, and graduated from Beverly Hills High School, then went back to Paris for more study until he entered Juilliard with an honorary scholarship. He has performed many recitals and concerts in Southern California and in France, his latest triumph being the winning of the 1977 Ventura County Symphony young artists competition. He will appear with that symphony in October.

The pops program will feature "Strike Up the Band" by Gershwin, in an arrangement by Roger Myers, who has obtained his master's degree in composition at UC Riverside. He has also played clarinet in the Redlands Bowl Symphony and does arrangements for other bands.

There will be a medley from "My Fair Lady," "Trumpeter's Lullaby" by Leroy Anderson; a medley of ragtime pieces such as Scott Joplin's music from "The Sting," "Maple Leaf Rag" and others arranged by Adler and "Dance of the Comedians" by Smetana.

A community sing will precede the regular program at 7:30 with Alen Ritchie directing and Ruth Grinnell Fowler at the piano.

The new wax comes in stacks

By STAN MIESES

There's been a ton of releases since our last record buying guide, and though most of the new lps ought to be melted down into hairspray, there are some worthy of recommendation.

Pick album of the season: The Heptones' "Party Time" (Island). This is a first-rate summer record, and it has hardly left my turntable during the last two months. Lead singer and chief writer Leroy Sibbles (a real cult favorite among the Rolling Stones) has come up with several tunes, and I mean singable, wonderful tunes in the mold of the Tokens, Lee Andrews, and Frankie Lyman — only with a distinct reggae beat. "Why Must I" is an instant classic, a singular melody with striking lyrics and an undeniable hook. What makes this such an exceptional record is that it's got straightforward, deep-feeling lyrics that, unlike so many reggae records, you can actually understand.

Bob Marley and the Wailers' "Exodus" (Island) is currently flying up the charts, and it's certainly a worthwhile reggae disk, but if you haven't caught up with "Rastaman Vibration" you've missed out on a great one. If the discified "Exodus" is your only intro to Marley, check out "Roots, Rock, Reggae" and the title track from "Rastaman Vibration." A superior record.

The Beatles — "Live at the Hollywood Bowl" (Capitol) is final proof that the Fab Four could do it in person, and their high-energy rock on this disk is younger than yesterday.

The Beatles — "Live! At the Star Club, Hamburg, Germany: 1962" (distributed by Atlantic) is final proof that the necrophiliac element in the record industry is alive and well. The sound rots, the selections are poor, and the intentions questionable. Only for diehard collectors.

The Alan Parsons Project — "I, Robot" (Arista) is representative of the best in the new studio-produced techno-rock. This is producer and organizer Parsons second successful outing with thematic material (following last year's "Tales of Mystery and Imagination," a rock treatment of Edgar Allan Poe), and this ambiguous view of a dehumanized future will give you gooseflesh, and perhaps raise a thought or two as well.

Geils — "Monkey Island" (Atlantic) is the recording many fans of this group have been waiting for — a good, hard record with several strong single hit candidates. Geils (formerly the J. Geils Band) should leap back into the spotlight shared by Southside Johnny, Graham Parker, and other white r&b acts — maybe their next one will make them headliners again. This one's a giant step forward.

James Taylor — "JT" (Columbia) is the best record Taylor has done since "Sweet Baby James" only for the fact that it sounds like he's discovered personal energy. It's a somewhat autobiographical accounting of JT's long-left fears, and perhaps that accounts for the non-Valium tempo. Very nice, very listenable.

SHOWING AT SHOW — Johnny Mathis, who has had 18 gold albums and countless million-seller singles, will headline at KMPC's annual Show of the World at the Forum in Inglewood Oct. 1.

'Star Wars' robots join stars in concrete

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Look who's just had their footprints immortalized in the forecourt of Mann's Chinese Theater — C3PO and R2-D2 from "Star Wars."

The footprints of the two robots from the smash hit join those of such stars as Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Tom Mix, Greta Garbo and Will Rogers at the Hollywood landmark. The villainous Lord Darth Vader helped them during the ceremony.

Afterward, C3PO gave a thank you speech and R2-D2 emitted a series of whistles, sighs and beeps.
